Young Couple Trudges Through Snow For Three Days To Send Rescuers To Marooned Parents

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — A pretty co-ed and her date staggered out of the snowbound Pikes Peak country last night and sent back rescuers who brought in her parents, marooned in their car since Sunday.

Doctors found Beverly Ohlson, 20, had a broken ankle when she was brought to an Englewood hospital for treatment of frostbite and sunburn. They said they did not see how she had managed to struggle through four-foot snow drifts on it. She didn't know it was broken. Numbing cold apparently kept it from hurting.

She and Robert Bolansky, 22, had battled three days through the snow to reach a television relay station near Castle Rock, Colo.

Cold, Hungry, Worried

Ten miles back on the Rampart Range Road rescuers found Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Ohlson huddled in their car, cold, hungry and worried.

Ohlson is a 57-year-old Denver chiropractor. Mrs. Ohlson is 33.

The four had driven to Colorado Springs Sunday for a visit. On the way back they decided to take a scenic back road. The car bogged down in snow and ice.

All four stayed in the car Sunday night, running the car and its heater part of the time to keep warm.

Miss Ohlson and Bolansky set out for help Monday morning. She wore her mother's fur coat and her father's shoes. Bolansky took Ohlson's overcoat.

Numb With Weariness

Monday and Tuesday night they huddled in crevices and lighted fires. The temperature was around zero.

"We were just numb with weariness and the cold," Bolansky said. "Our feet were getting very bad. I don't think we could have gone much further."

Mr. and Mrs. Ohlson burned the back seat of the car piecemeal for warmth. They melted snow for drinking water. There was nothing to eat.

"We really didn't feel hungry," he said. "We were too concerned over the safety of the kids."

Miss Ohlson and Bolansky are students on the Denver campus of the University of Colorado.

LAST CRIMINAL CASE OF TERM GOES TO JURY

Trial of criminal cases in the January term of Adams County Court will close this afternoon when the jury begins its deliberations of the charge of pointing a firearm brought against James W. Mauston, 141 W. High St.

When the Mauston jury retires to consider its verdict, about 2 o'clock this afternoon, trial is scheduled to begin on the action in assumpsit brought by Brickner-Lavine, a New York partnership, against Ronald W. Yarmark, Aspers, and the Yarmark Tile Co., of Aspers. Six civil suits are listed for the current term of court.

Wednesday afternoon a jury returned a verdict of innocent in the case of driving while under the influence brought against James Washington Thompson, Oklawaha, Fla., and placed the costs of the case on the county.

Both Changed Pleas

A jury Wednesday afternoon brought a directed verdict of innocent against George Earl Smith, Orrtanna R. 1.

The court directed the verdict finding Smith innocent of surety of the peace, assault and open lewdness after the prosecution, 71-year-old Sara Strausbaugh, Buchanan Valley, refused to testify against the youth who resides with her. The costs in the misdemeanors were placed against the prosecution.

Miller Not Guilty

Trial was begun on the Mauston case Wednesday afternoon and at the same time trial of George R. Miller, 117 Breckenridge St., charged by Mauston with surety of the peace, was heard by the court.

At noon today, with the completion of testimony in the Mauston case, the court found Miller innocent of the charge against him and placed the costs on Mauston because testimony in the Mauston case did not disclose sufficient evidence to support Mauston's charge against Miller.

Testimony in the case showed Mauston was the president and manager of the Dorsey-Stanton

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—Steven C. Patten, 25, of Glenmoore R. 1, Chester County, was killed yesterday in a collision of two tractor-trailers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike two miles west of the Bedford Interchange.

About an hour later, while wreckage was being cleared from the first crash, another tractor-trailer was unable to stop in time to avoid ramming a halted car-carrier. The carrier struck another tractor-trailer which in turn rammed an auto.

State police estimated total damage at about $40,000. Traffic was delayed two hours while the roadway was cleared.

Police said Patten was a passenger in a rig operated by Glen H. Larson, 28, of Paoli. They said Larson's truck and one operated by Amos Wamsley, 36, of Cowen, W. Va., were traveling in opposite directions when they skidded simultaneously and collided on the medial strip.

Wamsley and Larson were hospitalized at Bedford Memorial Hospital. Both were reported in fair condition. The occupants of the other vehicles escaped with minor injuries.

Utah Convicts Surrender To Governor After 12 Hours Of Uncontrolled Revolt, Binge

By FRANK WETZEL
And JOHN HURST

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP)—Rioting convicts knuckled under early today after ruling Utah State Prison for nearly 12 hours of uncontrolled revolt that was a strange mixture of violent destruction and almost tender concern for hostages.

Some prisoners went on a wild alcohol-and-power binge; others sat around nonchalantly watching television and looking out for the captives they had seized.

They yielded to Gov. George D. Clyde's firm insistence that he would not even consider their demands until they turned loose their hostages and gave up their weapons.

The wild party ended at 5:55 a.m. (MST).

(More)

Will Consider Suggestions

The last 18 of the hostages filed out of the convict-controlled section of the modern prison some 20 miles south of Salt Lake City. With them came convict spokesmen who surrendered their weapons.

Gov. Clyde said he would now consider the 43 "suggestions" of the prisoners. But first he left the prison and went home to rest after the night-long tension of facing them down.

The State Board of Corrections, governing body of the prison, was called to meet at the prison during the afternoon.

One guard was stabbed and one prisoner beaten during the melee. The prisoner was reported in satisfactory condition and the guard in fair condition.

Prison officials said during early stages of the rioting they could see what appeared to be a body hanging in one of the cell blocks but there was no later confirmation.

Make Damage Survey

The prisoners began retreating to their cells, and authorities went through to make a preliminary survey of damage. State Highway Patrol Sup. Lyle Hyatt said he was preparing a cell-by-cell shake-down.

The riot of about 500 prisoners started about 6:30 p.m. during Attorneys noted that Thompson, found innocent Wednesday afternoon and Harry Albert Lear, 213 Chambersburg St., found innocent by a jury Tuesday afternoon following a "drunken driving" trial, had both originally pleaded guilty to the charges and then had changed their minds, decided to stand trial, and both were acquitted.

The court directed the verdict finding Smith innocent of surety of the peace, assault and open lewdness after the prosecution, 71-year-old Sara Strausbaugh, Buchanan Valley, refused to testify against the youth who resides with her. The costs in the misdemeanor were placed against the prosecution.

Miller Not Guilty

Trial was begun on the Mauston case Wednesday afternoon and at the same time trial of George R. Miller, 117 Breckenridge St., charged by Mauston with surety of the peace, was heard by the court.

At noon today, with the completion of testimony in the Mauston case, the court found Miller innocent of the charge against him and placed the costs on Mauston because testimony in the Mauston case did not disclose sufficient evidence to support Mauston's charge against Miller.

EXPECT MANY BOY SCOUTS TO VISIT FIELD

Hundreds, possibly thousands of Boy Scouts will visit Gettysburg in July enroute to, or returning from the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, according to reports presented Wednesday evening at a meeting of the Black Walnut Boy Scout District committee at the engine house.

John C. W. Riddle, district chairman, reporting on queries received by the Chamber of Commerce here from Boy Scout councils throughout central United States, told the board: "With the great number of inquiries received by the Chamber of Commerce this early, it is evident that Gettysburg will be flooded with Boy Scouts immediately before and after the jamboree. Gettysburg is an important place to visit and it is anticipated that every Scout council that possibly can will seek to stop here going to or from the national gathering." Fifty thousand boys will attend the jamboree.

16 Going From District

Riddle appointed Allen Stauffer, George Olinger, Stanley C. Rogers, Richard Fox and himself as a committee to meet with the Chamber of Commerce, "to do what we can to help welcome these Scouts to Gettysburg." The possibility of setting up a Scout greeting committee by which delegations of local Scouts would formally visit the traveling Scouts during their trip here was discussed.

Sixteen Scouts from the Black Walnut district are currently listed to attend the National Jamboree at Valley Forge. Field Executive Stanley C. ## Utah Convicts Surrender To Governor After 12 Hours Of Uncontrolled Revolt, Binge

By FRANK WETZEL

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP)—Rioting convicts knuckled under early today after ruling Utah State Prison for nearly 12 hours of uncontrolled revolt that was a strange mixture of violent destruction and almost tender concern for hostages.

Some prisoners went on a wild alcohol-and-power binge; others sat around nonchalantly watching television and looking out for the captives they had seized.

They yielded to Gov. George D. Clyde's firm insistence that he would not even consider their demands until they turned loose their hostages and gave up their weapons.

The wild party ended at 5:55 a.m. (MST).

Will Consider Suggestions

200 MUSICIANS FROM 76 HIGH SCHOOLS HERE FOR 2 CONCERTS

Classical selections will be mixed with popular favorites in the concerts to be presented Friday and Saturday evenings in the Gettysburg High School auditorium by the 200-piece Southern District Band which gathered here today for its annual three-day festival.

This morning the 200 musicians selected from bands in 76 high schools in nine counties registered at the high school and were taken to the homes of their hosts in the community. This afternoon they began rehearsing under the baton of Powell Middleton, associate professor of music at the West Chester State Teachers' College, guest conductor for the festival.

Rehearsals continue this evening, Friday morning and afternoon with a brief concert for the high school student body Friday afternoon.

Field Trip, Dance, Banquet

The first public concert is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. A dance for the musicians will follow in the school cafeteria which the guest musicians will get all their meals excepting breakfasts.

Saturday morning will be devoted to rehearsals and in the afternoon there will be a bus tour of the battlefield with the annual banquet — with all of the bandsmen in uniform — Saturday evening at 5 o'clock at the school cafeteria. The Band Boosters club will serve the meal.

Then the musicians tune up at 7 for their final concert from 8 to 10 p.m. Saturday evening. Selections for the all-state band will be made during the district festival here. Gettysburg High School has 10 members in the district band.

Same Program Each Evening

The same program is planned for both public concerts and will open with the national anthem with Robert G. Zeigler, host band conductor, directing the big band. Then Donald Mease, president of the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association, will conduct the band in "Salute to PMEA." He will present Prof. Middleton who will direct the remainder of the program.

Complete Program

"Flandria Overture" by Smetsky will be followed by four movements, March, Evening Song, Waltz and Samba, and "Four Episodes for Band" by Morrissey. Then the band will play "Eisa's Procession" from "Lohegrin" by Wagner and "King Henry," a march, by King. A Ferde Grofe overture from his "Mississippi Suite" will be followed by "Chorale and Alleluia" by Hanson.

The second section of the program will open with the overture to the opera, "Italiana in Algeri" by Rossini, and will be followed by "Fandango." Then the "Nutcracker March" by Osterling will be presented and followed by "The Girl I Left Behind Me" from the "Irish Suite" by Anderson. After "Slavonic Rhapsody No. 2" by Friedmann, the concert will close with "The Stars and Stripes Forever March" by John Philip Sousa.

Young Couple Trudges Through Snow For Three Days To Send Rescuers To Marooned Parents

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP)—A pretty co-ed and her date staggered out of the snowbound Pikes Peak country last night and sent back rescuers who brought in her parents, marooned in their car since Sunday.

Doctors found Beverly Ohlson, 20, had a broken ankle when she was brought to an Englewood hospital for treatment of frostbite and sunburn. They said they did not see how she had managed to struggle through four-foot snow drifts on it. She didn't know it was broken. Numbling cold apparently kept it from hurting.

She and Robert Bolansy, 22, had battled three days through the snow to reach a television relay station near Castle Rock, Colo.

Cold, Hungry, Worried
Ten miles back on the Rampart Range Road, rescuers found Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Ohlson huddled in their car, cold, hungry and worried.

Ohlson is a 57-year-old Denver chiropractor. Mrs. Ohlson is 53. The four had driven to Colorado Springs Sunday for a visit. On the way back they decided to take a scenic back road. The car bogged down in snow and ice.

All four stayed in the car Sunday night, running the car and its heater part of the time to keep warm.

Miss Ohlson and Bolansy set out for help Monday morning. She wore her mother's fur coat and her father's shoes. Bolansy took Ohlson's overcoat.

Numb With Weariness
Monday and Tuesday night they huddled in crevices and lighted fires. The temperature was around zero.

"We were just numb with weariness and the cold," Bolansy said. "Our feet were getting very bad. I don't think we could have gone much further."

Mr. and Mrs. Ohlson burned the back seat of the car piecemeal for warmth. They melted snow for drinking water. There was nothing to eat.

"We really didn't feel hungry," he said. "We were too concerned over the safety of the kids."

Miss Ohlson and Bolansy are students on the Denver campus of the University of Colorado.

Mrs. Bigham told of the service, rendered chiefly by volunteers, in establishing reading rooms for service men here in World War I, initiating home service for soldiers' families, canteen service to truck trains, the establishment of first Mrs. John D. Keita, the enrollment of nurses in the Home Defense service, the knitting of sweaters and socks for servicemen, making garments for war refugees and the sending of Christmas parcels to the doughboys as early accomplishments of the Red Cross, many of which have been carried on into the present.

SOCIALISTS BATTLE WITH COMMY FOES

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Some left-wing Socialists, stubbornly sticking to their party's alliance with Communists engaged in a fist fight with other Socialists today outside the hall where the annual party congress is being held. Police broke up the brawl.

Inside the hall, three left-wing delegates spoke against party chief Pietro Nenni's speech yesterday in which he came out strongly for a "new policy" of unification with right-wing Socialists who split off 10 years ago and formed their own party, the Social Democrats, as a result of Nenni's political alliance with the Communists.

No Prevention
It appeared doubtful that either the fist fight or the opposition speeches would prevent a strong majority endorsement of Nenni's "new policy." He controls at least 80 per cent of the delegates, news-men believed.

But Nenni's speech failed to satisfy the Social Democrats that he had turned completely from an ally of communism to true friend of the West.

In his speech, Nenni blasted Soviet Russia for its violent intervention in Hungary, and declared "freedom of man" was not possible under the present brand of international communism.

But a high-ranking Social Democrat leader here as an observer said Nenni did not go far enough on assurances that the foreign policy of a united party would be solid adherence to the West.

Elizabeth's Parade Horse Is Destroyed

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's favorite parade horse, Winston, is dead. The 17-year-old gelding chestnut had to be destroyed after he slipped and fell when being exercised this morning.

He was known as the horse with the perfect manners—and a complete indifference to noise, traffic and crowds. He was ridden by King George VI at London's trooping of the color ceremony in 1947. The late monarch liked the horse so much that he recommended him to his daughter when she was Princess Elizabeth.

She rode Winston first in 1947 and then at all troopings of the color she had participated in since becoming Queen five years ago. The horse belonged to London police.

CHAPTER 28

Tightening Up On The Spy Net

Nine months after J. Edgar Hoover flashed the warning that atomic secrets had been stolen by agents of the Communists, the whole wretched story of espionage was known to the FBI.

FBI agents had followed the spy trail to Dr. Klaus Fuchs, and from Fuchs to the Philadelphia chemist, Harry Gold. From Gold, the path led to a 28-year-old ex-Army sergeant, David Greenglass, who lived with his wife, Ruth, and their two children in New York City.

Greenglass was in the kitchen preparing the baby's milk formula when two FBI agents knocked on the door. It was June 15, 1950. Greenglass left the kitchen and opened the door.

Agents Look Around
The agents showed their identification. "We are trying to locate information on materials lost, misplaced or stolen at the Los Alamos project. You worked at Los Alamos, didn't you?"

"Yes," Greenglass said. "But I can't help you. I know nothing about it."

The agents continued to question the ex-sergeant. Would he have any objections if they looked around the apartment?

"I have nothing to hide," Greenglass persisted. "Go ahead."

Atomic Bomb Project

For a time Greenglass protested his innocence. But then, like that of Fuchs and Gold, his part of the story finally spilled forth. Piece by piece, the parts fell into place. No one person had all the information, but when the FBI had gathered together the parts, there was the clear picture of espionage later revealed in testimony in federal court.

On Nov. 29, 1944 — three months after T-4 Sgt. David Greenglass' transfer to the secret Los Alamos atomic bomb project — Ruth Greenglass arrived in Albuquerque, N. M. This was their second wedding anniversary.

One day while walking along Highway 66, out beyond the city limits, Ruth told David about a talk she'd had with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in New York. Ethel was David's sister.

Ruth said: "Julius said at last he's doing what he always wanted to do — give information to the Soviet Union!"

Greenglass Agrees

Ruth said that Julius knew David was working on the atomic bomb. Julius and Ethel wanted David to give them information about his work which would be useful to Russia. If all nations had this atomic information, Julius said, one nation couldn't use the bomb as a threat against another nation.

David was scared. "I can't do it, Ruth," he said. But next day he agreed. Julius had been his hero for years. He didn't want to see Julius fail at anything he tried.

David gave Ruth a description of the Los Alamos layout, the approximate number of people working in the restricted area, and the names of scientists whose connection with the atomic project was supposed to be top-secret. He had picked up their names by overbearing talk at the plant.

Gives Names To Julius
Ruth memorized all David told her and repeated it to Julius Rosenberg when she returned home.

Two months after this meeting David returned to New York on leave. At Julius' request he made a number of sketches of a flat-type lens mold being used in atomic experiments.

He also gave Julius the names of people at Los Alamos who seemed to him to be sympathetic to communism and who might possibly be recruited to give information.

Greenglass returned to Los Alamos late in January at the end of his leave. Ruth arrived in Albuquerque in February and soon found an apartment where David could come to her on his days off.

David and Ruth were at home in their combination living room-dining room - bedroom when a strange man knocked on their door.

Only a few days before, Harry Gold had met Soviet Vice Consul Anatoli Yakovlev in a little bar and restaurant, at 42nd St. and Third Ave. in Manhattan. They had a drink, and then sat at a table where they could talk without being overheard.

Yakovlev handed Gold an envelope containing $500 to be given to Greenglass.

Gold In Santa Fe

Gold strolled through Santa Fe's streets toward his meeting with Fuchs. He saw the pale scientist driving toward him in an old car. The car stopped and he got in. Within a few minutes, Fuchs had given him a thick packet of information on atomic bomb secrets. He told Gold the bomb would be tested at Alamogordo, N. M., the next month.

Gold left Santa Fe by bus for Albuquerque. The Greenglasses had just finished breakfast when the stranger knocked. David opened the door.

"Are you Mr. Greenglass?"

"Yes."

Gold stepped into the living room. He said, "I come from Julius. Have you any information for me?"

Sketches Lens Molds

Greenglass drew sketches of the lens mold on which he had been working, and described in writing how the lens was used as a triggering device in atomic experiments. Again he listed names of people he regarded as possible espionage recruits.

Greenglass was back in New York on another furlough in September, 1945. The atomic bombs had been dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The war was over.

This time David gave Julius a sketch of a cross-section of the Nagasaki type bomb as he visualized it from knowledge of his own work on the triggering device and from the discussions he had heard.

Julius was pleased. "This is very good," he said.

NEW EQUIPMENT CONSIDERED BY FIRE COMPANY

Members of the Alpha Fire Company No. 1 discussed the purchase of additional fire fighting equipment at their February session held on Tuesday evening in the engine house. There was a discussion concerning the purchase of a smoke ejector for use in fighting fires where dense smoke is a hindrance.

Monroe G. Morelock was appointed to investigate the prices, and if possible, have the equipment at the next meeting for demonstration purposes. The purchase of an hydraulic jack was also considered, to be used in case of accident. Bernard G. Kebil and Robert Morgret were appointed to secure prices on this equipment and to secure a jack for possible demonstration at the March meeting.

President George E. Hornberger presided at the session, which opened with the singing of "America," followed with group prayer. Secretary Harry W. Badders reported. The names of Robert E. Ohler, Charles M. Morehead Jr. and Raymond Slagle were submitted for membership. President Hornberger appointed the following investigating committee: Burton Lawver, Jack H. Crouse and Edward L. Warner. Bills ordered paid amounted to $66 and receipts of the evening totaled $411.13, including $310.85 refund from the State Civil Defense as half payment reimbursing the borough for the radio installed in the service truck of the company.

Two Fire Calls
Jay D. Basehoar reported for the committee which appeared at the last meeting of the Littlestown Borough Council concerning the old LaFrance truck. The committee, which also included Paul E. Altoff and Glenn E. Ohler, reported including the fact that the borough officials suggested a resolution to give the fire company permission to recondition the truck as deems fit, but with the understanding that the old truck is never to be disposed of by the company. A committee consisting of Bernard G. Kebil, Glenn S. Kaufman Jr. and Edward L. Warner was appointed by the president to check over the truck and see what is needed in order to put the truck in first class condition, and to report their findings at the March meeting.

Fire Chief Glenn E. Ohler reported two fire calls during the month of January with slight damage resulting. Truck Foreman Dennis S. Wallick reported that a number of gas masks have been found defective and these will be repaired. He also announced that there will be additional resuscitator practice for the truck drivers and ambulance drivers.

President Hornberger appointed the following social committee to serve for the next quarter: Vernon Reed, Richard Stuller and James Myers. Chief Nozzelman Kenneth Shenebrook appointed Guy L. Conover, Burnell M. Keagy and Malcolm Harner as his assistants and Pipe Foreman Jack H. Crouse appointed Herbert Frock as his assistant.

At the conclusion of the business session refreshments, a portion of which were donated by Wintrode's Garage, were served by Allen Shene-

SOCIALISTS BATTLE WITH COMMY FOES

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Some left-wing Socialists, stubbornly sticking to their party's alliance with Communists engaged in a fist fight with other Socialists today outside the hall where the annual party congress is being held. Police broke up the brawl.

Inside the hall, three left-wing delegates spoke against party chief Pietro Nenni's speech yesterday in which he came out strongly for a "new policy" of unification with right-wing Socialists who split off 10 years ago and formed their own party, the Social Democrats, as a result of Nenni's political alliance with the Communists.

No Prevention

It appeared doubtful that either the fist fight or the opposition speeches would prevent a strong majority endorsement of Nenni's "new policy." He controls at least 80 per cent of the delegates, news-men believed.

But Nenni's speech failed to satisfy the Social Democrats that he had turned completely from an ally of communism to true friend of the West.

In his speech, Nenni blasted Soviet Russia for its violent intervention in Hungary, and declared "freedom of man" was not possible under the present brand of international communism.

But a high-ranking Social Democrat leader here as an observer said Nenni did not go far enough on assurances that the foreign policy of a united party would be solid adherence to the West.

BANK ROBBERS ARE DESCRIBED

State and borough police are on the lookout today for two suspects involved in the $7,000 Union Mills bank robbery Tuesday afternoon at 2:35 o'clock. The unmasked bandits, both wearing snub-nosed revolvers, escaped toward the Pennsylvania state line following the robbery.

Descriptions of the men were received by local police as follows: Both were wearing slouch hats, were white and aged about 35. One man was dressed in a red jacket and light trousers. They drove a large blue or black sedan.

The two bandits forced the lone teller and two customers to lie on the floor of the bank while they took the money.

Police from Randallstown, Frederick and Pikesville joined with troopers from York and Gettysburg in the search.

Various Versions

George R. Miller, 117 Brockenridge St., Charles Marshall Freeling, Gettysburg R. 1, and Robert M. Saunders, 127 S. Franklin St., who appeared as witnesses, plus another man, arrived at the Dorsey-Stanton post home on W. High St. about 1 a.m. December 24, according to the testimony. They asked for a drink. The bar had been closed and the lights extinguished. Defense and prosecution witnesses gave various versions of what occurred. Mauston admitted getting a shotgun but held he did not point it at anyone and secured the gun only after there was a disturbance and the four men sought to get behind the bar. There was testimony concerning the throwing of a bottle and a mustard jar at Mauston, but different versions of whether it occurred before or after he got the shotgun. There was also conflict in the testimony of whether the bar had been closed before the four men arrived or whether Mauston had said: "Here comes trouble" and had the lights extinguished when he saw the four approaching.

Can Revise Goals

A review of district goals for 1957 indicated that an upward revision will need to be made. The district had set a goal of four new units during the year. Chairman Riddle reported Wednesday evening that eight new units are in the process of formation and are expected to begin operation "within the next three months."

A goal of having 24 units taking part in special outdoor activities set for the year has already been reached, the district chairman said, and a scheduled goal of "two-deep leadership" for 23 units has also already been reached.

Reports of Dr. William O. Duck, training chairman, on plans to attain a goal of 16 trained adult leaders and ten junior leaders during the year showed the goal will be more than exceeded with the completion of the University of Scouting starting February 19 at Hanover.

Field Scout Executive Stanley C. Rogers reported a number of window displays have been entered in the Scout Week contest being conducted at the present time. As part of the Scout Week observance nearly all units are holding special events this week or next week, he said.

Rogers told the group that Friday evening, at 8:15 o'clock will mark the 47th birthday of the Boy Scouts of America. At that hour 47 years ago the Boy Scouts of America was formed." He urged all scouts and scouters to mark the moment preferably by gatherings of units at that time.

The late monarch liked the horse so much that he recommended him to his daughter when she was Princess Elizabeth.

She rode Winston first in 1947 and then at all troopings of the color she had participated in since becoming Queen five years ago. The horse belonged to London police.

Today's Talk

THE SNOW

As I write I look out upon the earth, near at hand, that is clothed in a garment of ermine. The leafless arms of the trees hold billions of crystalline designs that have hesitated or taken a rest on their way to the earth below. They will only stay upon these lacelike arms for a brief period, however, for the warm sun will consume or melt them into the thirsty land. Those who have never seen a heavily spread snow can have no idea of its perfect beauty and its composition of billions of perfect crystals in their endless designs that have inspired all art since time began. The birds that have remained leave their tiny footprints, and the beautiful trails of squirrels mark pathways as they search for buried food. And how beautiful are the creeping soft shadows in the sunlight!

I wonder why it is that so many birds delay their migrations to sunnier and warmer climes. It may be because they love the adventure, for many of them I see only while the snow lasts. But they seem so grateful for the bits of food I scatter about the kitchen door, Starlings, bluejays, snowbirds, sparrows and others grow friendly and appreciative.

The warmly fur-clothed grey squirrels frolic in the sunlight and seem to enjoy this white feast of nature as they leap from tree to tree and gather hidden treasures that their activity has created. Happiness in nature is no occasional event. It is the usual. It's the natural way in nature's world.

In country places the snow becomes a cloak to warm the grains of later days. And it performs a protective element that later gives over to the thirst of the earth and April showers. How methodical are the ways of Nature! How tinged with beauty!

WAITING

His mother and I waited long through the night for him to arrive. And when the nurse told me that both were all right it was well after five.

For hours in a corridor long I had paced. And the moments were grim. Time dragged slowly by, which had formerly raced.

As we waited for him. The years have flown rapidly past us since then. He has started to roam. And late through the night we are waiting again.

For him to come home. Copyright, 1957, by Edgar A. Guest

BILL TO FREE TOLL BRIDGES BEFORE HOUSE

HARRISBURG (AP)—A bill to require freeing of 10 state-owned toll bridges on noon May 30 was in position today for committee consideration in the House.

The proposal, submitted yesterday by three Republicans was referred to the Highways Committee. It would direct the Highways Department to sell any buildings or other property acquired in the $12-million-dollar purchase of the bridges in 1949.

Money from the sales would be applied to interest and sinking fund charges on bonds sold for the original purchase. Anything left over would go to the Motor License Fund.

Other New Bills
The bridges are at Harrisburg (2), Bethlehem (2), Duncannon, Allentown, Ellwood City, Sunbury, Charleroi-Monessen and Point Marion.

Other new bills would: End the necessity of advertising state construction contracts with sub contracts — Strausser (R-Columbia) and Andrews (D-Cambria).

Increase the salary of members of the State Board of Barber Examiners from $15 to $20 a day — Jump (R-Luzerne) and Musto (D-Luzerne).

Allow the Public Utility Commission to fix bus company rates on the basis of the relation of the firm's expenses to revenues — Strausser and Magee (R-Crawford).

Appropriate $50,000 to the State Fish Commission to help pay for the loss of trout killed Dec. 1 at the Bellefonte Hatchery — Stimmel (R-Lehigh).

Lilli Palmer Gets Mexican Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Mexican divorce decree granted to actress Lilli Palmer from Rex Harrison yesterday in Juarez, left the British actor free to marry Kay Kendall of London, who is in Hollywood making her first American film.

But Miss Kendall, who has been seen in Harrison's company often, said through a studio spokesman that she has "no immediate plans" to marry him.

Harrison is on a month's leave from the Broadway hit "My Fair Lady," and he took it at the time "Les Girls" went into production at MGM. Miss Kendall is appearing in that picture, which also stars Mitzi Gaynor.

Broadway gossip has it that Miss Palmer may marry South American actor Carlos Thompson.

Governor And Gobel Honored

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. Leader praised the role of private charitable groups last night as he and 12 others were honored by the Golden Slipper Square Club as outstanding young men of 1956. One of the distinguished achievement award winners was television comedian George Gobel. Pennsylvanians besides the governor who were feted included Willard F. Rockwell Jr., president of Rockwell Manufacturing Co., Pittsburgh; John B. Killy Jr., Philadelphia sculling champion, and helicopter pioneer Frank N. Piasecki of Morton, Pa.

The cut will have worldwide repercussions since the Bank of England is the key financial institution of the sterling area. Other financial institutions usually follow the lead of the nationalized bank.

The bank's action, on orders of Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft, makes money easier to get by reducing the interest which borrowers will have to pay.

As a result of the victory the Bolts moved into a tie with Boiling Springs for second place. Both are one game back of league-leading Biglerville.

The game was a nip and tuck affair all the way, the Bolts spurring in the final period to clinch the triumph. Four Littletown players scored in double figures with Ken Koonitz leading the attack with 18 and Clyde Fuhrman adding 17. Dean Vaughn landed 20 for the Bubbiers.

PODRES SAYS HE'S HAVING BACK TROUBLE

NEW YORK (P) — Pitcher Johnny Podres still has trouble with his back. But before Brooklyn's opponents perk up, they might recall he also had back trouble in 1955.

All he did that year was win the Dodgers' first world baseball championship.

A phone call to Witherbee, N.Y., brought the information that Podres was out ice fishing on Lake Champlain.

"Pretty Good"
"Got a load of what we call Lake Champlain ice fish," he said later. "They run about seven or eight inches apiece."

It wasn't easy to switch the conversation to baseball and a bad back.

"It's been pretty good," said John. "But I still have a little trouble with it. Like when I go fishing and sit down quite a while. After I stand up, it feels a little better."

Farrell scored big, too, 69-47, over Ellwood City. The defending champion's big rival in the WPIAL — Sharon — dropped Beaver Falls, 68-33. Sharon, the Sect. III leader and undefeated in league play, and Farrell meet again Feb. 22.

Dist. 1 became more snarled with Swarthmore's 87-62 victory over Yeadon, dropping Yeadon to fourth place in Sect. II while Lansdowne — Aldan and Nether Providence — climbed up. Lansdowne-Aldan routed Radnor, last season's champion, 72-38, and Nether Providence dumped Upper Merion 74-37.

Chester Maintains Race
Dist. 1's Sect. 1 leader, Chester, continued its pace with an 84-55 win over Abington.

Scranton Central, first half Lehighawana League titlist, upended Clark Summit, 84-35, in Dist. 2.

Swoyersville, 1956 district champion, lost to Allentown in Dist. 11. Palmerton, defending district champ and state runnerup, defeated Slatington in the Lehigh Valley half of the district, 76-63.

Other important victories were Reading 48, Harrisburg William Penn 40 in the Central Penn. of Dist. 3; Hanover 17, Waynesboro 67 in the South Penn.; Altoona 51, Renovo 39 in a non-league game; Johnstown 70, Westmont 67 in overtime and Ford City 32, Har-Brack 31.

ROYALS SQUEEZE PAST ST. LOUIS IN NEW SURGE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Less than a week ago, the Rochester Royals were in the throes of an 11-game losing streak and on the brink of falling into the Western division cellar of the National Basketball Assn.

Today the up-and-down Royals are one game out of second place and just two games away from the top after winning four of their last five games in a six-day span.

Rochester is no stranger to first place, having been in that spot Jan. 1 to wrap up the West all-star coaching job for its skipper, Bobby Wanzer. However, after the All-Star game, the Royals went into their slump.

The Royals, sprinkled with youngsters, squeezed past runner-up St. Louis 103-100 last night for their second straight success. Their only setback in the past six days was a two-point defeat to Philadelphia Sunday.

Rookie Bob Burrow blocked a potential tie-breaking field goal by Bob Pettit, the league's leading scorer, with 16 seconds to go to insure the verdict.

The Boston Celtics, the eastern division front-runners, posted their 12th victory in the last 13 sars, overwhelming Fort Wayne's Western section pace-setters 108-93.

The New York Knicks' bowled over the Syracuse Nats 119-100 to solidify their hold on third place in the Eastern division and also climb to within one game of runner-up Philadelphia. The Warriors bowed to Minneapolis 101-100 as the Lakers snapped an eight-game losing streak.

TEST YOUR BASEBALL KNOW-HOW YOU'RE THE MANAGER

(Ninth of a series)

By BEN OLAN

Johnny Antonelli of the New York Giants was one of the National League's most effective pitchers in the second half of the 1956 season.

The star lefthander won 11 of his last 14 decisions to finish the year with 20 victories against 13 defeats.

He had an earned run average of 2.66, third best in the league.

In a game against the Milwaukee Braves, Antonelli was on the mound when Giants' Manager Bill Rigney had to make a quick decision.

Here's an opportunity to match wits with Rigney. Examine the following situation. . . decide what you would have done. . . then see what happened.

Would you:

a. Have Antonelli intentionally walk Thompson?
b. Let Antonelli pitch to Thompson?
c. Bring in a righthander to pitch to Thompson?

Result: A — Antonelli remains in the game and intentionally walks Thompson. He then retires Andy Pafko (R), batting for Bruton, on a pop fly. Giants pick up another win and win 5-3 (June 10).

BEARS TIGHTEN 3RD PLACE GRIP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Hershey Bears have tightened their hold on third place and moved to within a point of runner-up Cleveland, turning the American Hockey League into a hot three-team race.

The Bears closed the gap last night defeating the last place Springfield Indians 7-6. Hershey brought its point total to 50 and trails league-leading Providence by four points.

There were no other games scheduled.

Ed Panaza Ko, who had a brief trial with the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, was the big gun in the Bears' attack. With Hershey commanding a 5-4 lead after two periods, Panagab scored twice before the final session was half over and two more Cleveland tallies only served to make the contest close.

Phillies Open Season With Rookie School

OLEANWATER, Fla. (P) — Baseball season gets underway here today when the Philadelphia Phillies open their rookie school under the direction of Manager Mayo Smith.

Fifty players, including several veterans, will workout under Smith and the entire managerial staff of the Philadelphia farm system. The camp runs through Feb. 23.

Roth just missed setting a new individual record for the local floor which was set last year by Al Tett of the Bullets who landed 42 against the Mules.

Superb rebounding, particularly by 6-2 Clint Jeffries, Roth and 6-4 Bill Smith, made the triumph fairly easy for Muhlenberg who came through with many tap-ins while seldom permitting the Bullets more than one shot when on the offense.

The score was close throughout the first 16 minutes of play before the Mules started to move with a fine exhibition of all-around ability.

Close In Early Minutes
Gettysburg held brief leads of 2-1, 4-3, 6-5, 8-7, and 10-9 in the first 12 minutes of play. The Mules reeled off 10 straight points at that stage before the Bullets came on again to slash the lead to 22-20 on Jack Hathaway's goal after 8:56.

After 12:45 minutes of action the Bullets trailed only 30-28 but in the closing minutes the Mules displayed a well-balanced attack good for 15 straight points to make it 43-30 and in the final two minutes held the margin to lead 47-38 at half time.

A three-point by Bob Walsack, a foul and goal by Hathaway cut Muhlenberg's lead to open the second half but the Mules recovered to win going away.

Tim Cousins, Bullet center, turned in a nice performance and led the Bullet attack with 20 tallies. Del Warfel chipped in with 16 and Walsack landed 15.

The loss was the 13th in 18 starts for the Bullets and marked the 10th triumph against seven losses for the senior-dominated visitors.

Play Opener At Hershey
Bob Davies takes his Bullet squad to Hershey to meet Lehigh Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the first game of a collegiate double-header in the Hershey Sports Arena. The Bullets won over Lehigh at Bethlehem earlier in the campaign 62-55.

In the second game of the evening Elizabethtown meet Lebanon Valley. Reserved seat and general admission tickets may be secured for Friday's twin bill at the college athletic office or at the Britcher and Bender Drug Store, Chambersburg St.

Fresh Cop Prelim
Jack Ridinger's Bullet freshmen avenged a previous defeat by trouncing St. Francis Prep of Spring Grove in Wednesday's preliminary 91-79 to up their record to 6-5. It was the third loss against eight wins for 'the Hilltoppers. Both teams displayed phenomenal shooting throughout. Dick Davidyock and Dick Davies each netted 18 for Gettysburg. Piff led all scorers with 30 points for St. Francis.

The freshmen next meet the Albright reserves in the preliminary to the varsity game here Monday evening.

The game was a nip and tuck affair all the way, the Bolts spurring in the final period to clinch the triumph. Four Littletown players scored in double figures with Ken Koontz leading the attack with 18 and Clyde Fuhrman adding 17. Dean Vaughn landed 20 for the Bubbblers.

BIG FOUR CAGE BEGIN LAST LAP WITH VICTORIES

HARRISBURG (P)—Some perennial Pennsylvania scholastic basketball leaders have been hard pressed this season—notably state champion Farrell—but they all stepped out with renewed vigor Tuesday night.

The big four in the undefeated column all racked up wide margins—like this:

McKeesport 64, Clairton 38; Coal Twp. 70, Shamokin 49; Allentown 83, Swoyersville 65; and Portage 96, Nanty Glo 49.

Farrell scored big, too, 69-47, over Ellwood City. The defending champion's big rival in the WPAL—Sharon—dropped Beaver Falls, 68-33. Sharon, the Sect. III leader, and undefeated in league play, and Farrell met again Feb. 22.

Dist. I became more snarled with Swarthmore's 87-62 victory over Yeaton, dropping Yeaton to fourth place in Sect. II while Lansdowne - Aldan and Nether Providence climbed up. Lansdowne-Aldan routed Radnor, last season's champion, 72-38, and Nether Providence dumped Upper Merion 74-37.

Chester Maintains Race
Dist. I's Sect. I leader, Chester, continued its pace with an 84-55 win over Abington.

Scranton Central, first half Lackawanna League titlist, upended Clarks Summit, 84-35, in Dist. 2.

Swoyersville, 1956 district champion, lost to Allentown in Dist. 11. Palmerton, defending district champ and state runner-up, defeated Slatington in the Lehigh Valley half of the district, 76-63.

Other important victories were Reading 48, Harrisburg William Penn 40 in the Central Penn. of Dist. 3; Hanover 77, Waynesboro 67 in the South Penn.; Altoona 51, Renovo 39 in a non-league game; Johnstown 70, Westmont 67 in overtime and Ford City 32, Har-Brack 31.

Today the up-and-down Royals are one game out of second place and just two games away from the top after winning four of their last five games in a six-day span.

Rochester is no stranger to first place, having been in that spot Jan. 1 to wrap up the West all-star coaching job for its skipper, Bobby Wanzer. However, after the All-Star game, the Royals went into their slump.

Once-Beaten Biglerville Wrestlers

Biglerville High School's wrestlers, tied for second place in the Section 2 Division of District 3, journey to Central Dauphin tonight for an important divisional match. Coach Tom Faulkner's cagers have an overall season record of 5-1. Four squad members are unbeaten this year, George Flickinger, 95-pounder; Jim Daughenbaugh, 133; Captain Ralph Mentzer, 154, and John Harmon, 185.

PODRES SAYS HE'S HAVING BACK TROUBLE

NEW YORK (P)—Pitcher Johnny Podres still has trouble with his back. But before Brooklyn's opponents perk up, they might recall he also had back trouble in 1955.

All he did that year was win the Dodgers' first world baseball championship.

A phone call to Witherbee, N.Y., brought the information that Podres was out ice fishing on Lake Champlain.

"Pretty Good"
"Got a load of what we call Lake Champlain ice fish," he said later. "They run about seven or eight inches apiece."

It wasn't easy to switch the conversation to baseball and a bad back.

"It's been pretty good," said John. "But I still have a little trouble with it. Like when I go fishing and sit down quite a while. After I stand up, it feels a little better."

Might Need Operation
"They told me in the Navy I might have to have an operation. I suppose I will eventually but there's no telling when. It might be two years and it might not be for five or ten."

How did Podres feel about the statements by Manager Walter Alston, who said he might use John in relief if his back bothered him like it did at Montreal?

"Whatever Walter says goes," Podres said. "I just hope it will be all right."

"I'm going South about Feb. 20 and I'm not going to bear down too much for a month or so. I don't want to overdo it at first. Oh, I'll pitch some but not too hard."

"By the time we start to work our way North I ought to know what I can do."

ROYALS SQUEEZE PAST ST. LOUIS IN NEW SURGE

Less than a week ago, the Rochester Royals were in the throes of an 11-game losing streak and on the brink of falling into the Western division cellar of the National Basketball Assn.

Today the up-and-down Royals are one game out of second place and just two games away from the top after winning four of their last five games in a six-day span.

TED WILLIAMS MIGHT LIKE TO STAY IN SPORT

BOSTON (P)—Ted Williams, temperamental throughout his brilliant career, is mellowing with age—or maybe it's just the off season.

The 38-year-old Boston slugger indicated yesterday that he has had a change of mind and might like to stay in baseball after his playing days.

Williams displayed a beaming grin after signing a one-year contract for about $100,000 which continues him as baseball's highest paid player.

But he turned off the grin and became serious when asked if he would like to remain in baseball when he has to quit as a player.

Coach Or Executive
"After my playing days are over I will do everything possible to help the game," he said. "Other than that I want to fish any time in any place I want."

He thought the matter over carefully for a few more seconds and added:

"Put it this way. I would stay in the game if I'm wanted. As you get older you start realizing there isn't a whole lot of things you know better than baseball."

Ted indicated he would prefer to become a coach or an executive when he said, "I'm not so sure a man can come right out of the player ranks and become a manager."

Ted, who will be 39 in August, is looking forward only to the 1957 season—not beyond.

"HOT ROD" WILL OFFER TERRIFIC COMBINATION

NEW YORK (P)—Which will it be? Hot Rod the basketball player—or Hot Rod the clown?

Coach Joe Lapchick says it'll be a case of some of each when Rod Hundley finishes up at West Virginia and goes to work for one of the pro basketball clubs in the NBA.

Lapchick, who has completed the cycle of college coach to pro coach and back to college coach, recently took his St. John's University Redmen of Brooklyn to Morgantown, W. Va., for a game with Hundley and the Mountaineers.

He came back predicting that Hot Rod would become a great pro player as well as a standout crowd attraction with his talent for the unusual.

Hundley, who leads the Mountaineers against NYU in part of a college double-header at Madison Square Garden tonight, scored 30 points while West Virginia crushed a better than adequate St. John's club 105-72.

More than that, with the home crowd luring him on, Hot Rod threw a couple hook shots on free throw attempts, tossed in a handful of other "clowning" maneuvers, and stopped once or twice to take over leading the West Virginia cheering section.

Combine his basketball and clowning abilities, Lapchick says, and some pro team will have a potential gold mine in a year or two.

Today's Talk

THE SNOW

As I write I look out upon the earth, near at hand, that is clothed in a garment of ermine. The leafless arms of the trees hold billions of crystallized designs that have hesitated or taken a rest on their way to the earth below. They will only stay upon these lacelike arms for a brief period, however, for the warm sun will consume or melt them into the thirsty land.

Those who have never seen a heavily spread snow can have no idea of its perfect beauty and its composition of billions of perfect crystals in their endless designs that have inspired all art since time began. The birds that have remained leave their tiny footprints, and the beautiful trails of squirrels mark pathways as they search for buried food. And how beautiful are the creeping soft shadows in the sunlight!

I wonder why it is that so many birds delay their migrations to summer and warmer climates. It may be because they love the adventure, for many of them I see only while the snow lasts. But they seem so grateful for the bits of food I scatter about the kitchen door. Starlings, bluejays, snowbirds, sparrows and others grow friendly and appreciative.

The warmly fur-clothed grey squirrels frolic in the sunlight and seem to enjoy this white repast of nature as they leap from tree to tree and gather hidden treasures that their activity has created. Happiness in nature is no occasional event. It is the usual. It's the natural way in nature's world.

In country places the snow becomes a cloak to warm the grains of later days. And it performs a protective element that later gives over to the thirst of the earth and April showers. How methodical are the ways of Nature! How tinged with beauty!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Human Book" Protected, 1957, by The George Matthew Adams Service

WAITING

His mother and I waited long through the night for him to arrive. And when the nurse told me that both were all right. It was well after five.

For hours in a corridor long I had paced. And the moments were grim. Time dragged slowly by, which had formerly raced, As we waited for him.

The years have flown rapidly past us since then. He has started to roam. And late through the night we are waiting again, For him to come home.

BILL TO FREE TOLL BRIDGES BEFORE HOUSE

HARRISBURG (AP)—A bill to require freeing of 10 state-owned toll bridges on noon May 30 was in position today for committee consideration in the House.

The proposal, submitted yesterday by three Republicans was referred to the Highways Committee. It would direct the Highways Department to sell any buildings or other property acquired in the 8½-million-dollar purchase of the bridges in 1949.

Money from the sales would be applied to interest and sinking fund charges on bonds sold for the original purchase. Anything left over would go to the Motor License Fund.

Other New Bills

The bridges are at Harrisburg (2), Bethlehem (2), Duncannon, Allentown, Ellwood City, Sunbury, Charleroi-Monessen and Point Marion.

Other new bills would: End the necessity of advertising state construction contracts with sub contracts — Strausser (R-Columbia); and Andrews (D-Cambria).

Increase the salary of members of the State Board of Barber Examiners from $15 to $20 a day—Jump (R-Luzerne) and Musto (D-Luzerne).

Allow the Public Utility Commission to fix bus company rates on the basis of the relation of the firm's expense to revenues — Strausser and Magee (R-Crawford).

Appropriate $50,000 to the State Fish Commission to help pay for the loss of trout killed Dec. 1 at the Bellefonte Hatchery—Simmel (R-Lehigh).

Lilli Palmer Gets Mexican Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Mexican divorce decree granted to actress Lilli Palmer from Rex Harrison yesterday in Juarez: left the British actor free to marry Kay Kendall of London, who is in Hollywood making her first American film.

But Miss Kendall, who has been seen in Harrison's company often, said through a studio spokesman that she has "no immediate plans" to marry him.

Harrison is on a month's leave from the Broadway hit "My Fair Lady," and he took it at the time "Les Girls" went into production at MGM. Miss Kendall is appearing in that picture, which also stars Mitzi Gaynor.

Broadway gossip has it that Miss Palmer may marry South American actor Carlos Thompson.

Family Food Facts

It's time to take a new look at canned foods. We've seen them around, and used them since we were children. And, because the outside hasn't changed much in looks over the years, most of us don't realize that what's inside may have taken on a new look.

It was the canning industry which first changed our food habits. Menus no longer need be bound by season, or specific location. We are now able to have a variety of foods the year round from all around the country.

Buying Canned Vegetables

Maybe, the thought doesn't occur to you often, but there are differences in quality in the canned vegetables we buy, just as there are in fresh vegetables that we easily see. When we buy canned vegetables, we usually choose the brand that we have found satisfactory. Just the same, there are standards of quality that whole-sale canned food buyers keep in mind when they decide which brand to stock. The canned vegetable trade often uses fancy, extra standard, and standard to describe the appearance of the products sold. Sometimes this information appears on the label, but more often it does not. Also, there are U. S. Government grades — A-B-C occasionally used to designate differences in canned vegetables.

Know The Facts

Cans are tailor-made for the products they contain.

Canned foods are already prepared and ready to use.

Canned foods are already prepared and ready to use — hot or cold.

Canned foods retain much nutritive value.

Canned foods will keep for long periods of time in a cool, dry place.

It is safe to store opened cans, if covered, in a refrigerator for short periods of time.

There are dietetic canned foods for those who need to count calories and watch their intake of salt.

The liquid in the can is full of nutritive value. To retain it: Drain liquid in sauce pan; Boil quickly to reduce amount to 1/2 cup; add vegetables; heat quickly and season to your family's taste.

Canned corn comes in more ways than you would guess at first. First there is white and yellow sweet corn on store shelves. White corn is probably featured more often in Southeastern Pennsylvania. Corn is packed cream style, whole kernel, and dried evaporated.

Cream style white or yellow corn is graded on several points, but tenderness and maturity are the most important factors. If necessary, enough starch may be added to cream style corn to insure smoothness. When starch is added, that fact must be stated on the label.

With whole kernel corn, tenderness and maturity are the most important considerations. Fancy or Grade A corn means that kernels are in the early milk stage, not "dough like" as in standard or Grade C.

White "shoe peg" corn with small round kernels is packed in Maryland and southeastern Pennsylvania and is available especially in those regions. Many people like this type, and it is a pleasant variation to try if you are not familiar with it.

Look At Label

Look at the label to see which style of canned snap beans you are buying. They come packed many different ways — sometime whole, cut crosswise, cut lengthwise (French style), or mixed cuts.

Two distinctly different types of green peas are canned, and featured in almost all grocery stores.

The peas which grow in the shortest time are the smooth skinned Alaska peas. They are often labeled "Early" or "June" peas. The other type is the later sweet wrinkled pea. The appearance of the smooth pea stands up better in the canning process, and these Alaska peas sell for a higher price than the wrinkled peas which actually have a sweeter flavor.

Canned tomatoes and other tomato products can vary in quality. The top grades are a good choice when you want bright color, whole tomatoes, or large pieces. The lower grades are wholesome, and are a thrifty choice for many uses including sauces, soups, stews, and casseroles.

Canned chop suey vegetables, drained, combined with canned pork to become Chop Suey when seasoned with a bit of Soy Sauce and molasses. Serve on rice or chow mein noodles.

Canned carrots and canned beans become special when arranged on a platter with canned rice with beef.

Canned whole potatoes, canned whole onions, canned peas and canned carrots combined with canned beef for a quick "man-size" stew or meat pie.

Canned hominy can be used instead of rice or macaroni in many casseroles.

Final Touches To Cooking

Lima beans with bacon or ham. Toss Lima beans with bacon or ham bits.

Mustard-butter corn — Season hot corn with mustard, butter and salt.

Asparagus with butter, a squeeze of lemon, salt and pepper.

Horse-radish beets and onions — Add small onion rings, prepared horse-radish, butter and salt.

Peas and Mushrooms — Heat peas and mushrooms with butter and garlic salt.

Butter beans — heat and toss with cream, bacon bits, pepper and a dash of onion salt.

Okra and Tomatoes with whole onions — heat together one can okra and tomatoes and one small can whole onions, drained; season with butter and salt.

Canned tomato aspic — garnish with celery hearts or cottage cheese for a salad.

Whole kernel corn — combine with small onions and pitted olives or combine with chopped green pepper and pimiento for a splash of color and extra flavor.

Green beans or garden peas — combine with sauteed onions or silvered almonds.

At Biglerville since 1923, he had been instrumental in the construction of more than $2,000,000 worth of school buildings.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Stock of New Oxford, he graduated from New Oxford High and Shippensburg State Teachers College. Active in numerous organizations, he was the first president and one of the founders of the Adams County Schoolmen's Association, and after serving as president of that organization for three years has served as a member of its planning commission since that time.

He was one of the founders and first president of the Upper Adams Lions Club. He is a past president of the Southern Convention District of the Pennsylvania State Education Association and was president of the Adams County branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association for ten years.

Community Service
He served as a member of the Adams County Public Assistance Board, by appointment of the governor, from 1951 to 1956, and currently is a member of the Biglerville borough council.

He is a life member of the National Education Association, has been a member of the Pennsylvania State Education Association for 36 years, and is a member of the American School Administrators, the National Secondary School Principals Association, the National Supervising Principals Association and the National Elementary Principals Association.

He has been a member of the board of directors of the South Mountain Fair Association and for several years has served as chairman of its advertising committee. Additions to the curriculum during his years at Biglerville have included such major endeavors as the vocational homemaking course, the vocational agriculture course, the six-year industrial arts program, special classes and even the band and chorus.

In connection with the reorganization of the Upper Adams school systems Stock established the new ten-year old School Commission, made up of representatives throughout the area to study and suggest changes to the school board.

New Opportunity
He also established three Parent-Teacher Associations in the Upper Adams area.

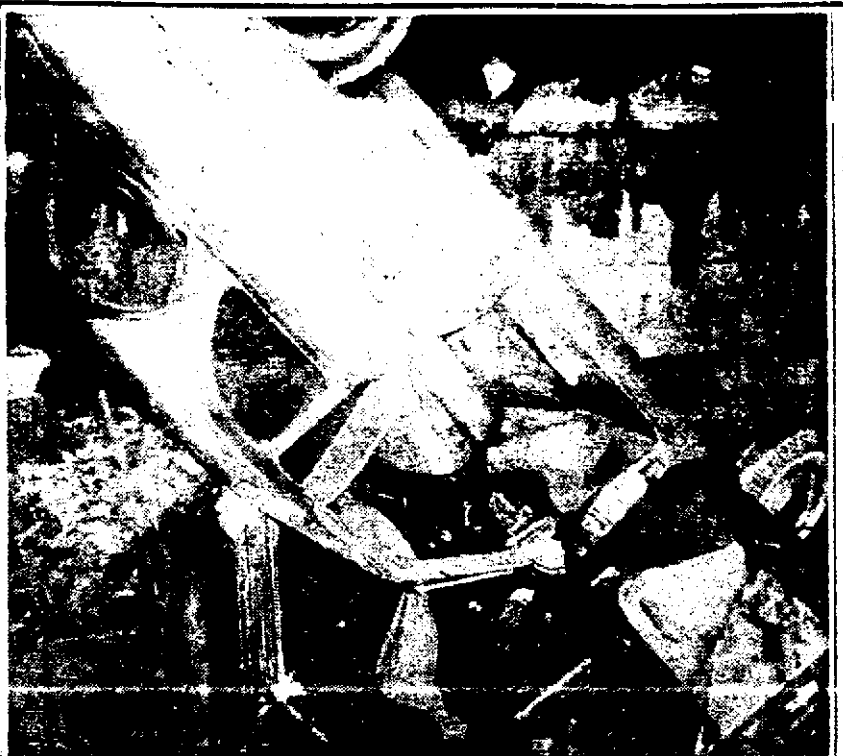

Concerning his new position with the Biglerville National Bank, Stock noted that he has served sufficient years in education to qualify for retirement and "this gives me an opportunity to try a new endeavor. Mrs. Kermit Slusser and Mrs. Lloyd Benner served as clerks at both of the clinics in Fairfield. Similar clinics will be held at Fairfield High School Wednesday, March 6 to administer second shots to the school children. As on Wednesday, the March 6 program will include the inoculation of school children during school hours and a special session from 7 to 8 o'clock that evening at the school for pre-school and out-of-school children.

Two young men were admitted to the Warner Hospital after escaping serious injuries when the car in which they were riding hit a bridge abutment on the northeastern outskirts of Taneytown Wednesday evening. Airman Eugene Anthony Miller, 23, Emmitsburg R. 1, the driver suffered facial cuts and a possible fracture of the jaw. Joseph Sanders, 18, 316 E. Main St., Emmitsburg, sustained a fractured right leg and lacerations of the face. Miller was transferred to the Carlisle Barracks Hospital today. Maryland State Trooper Kenneth Mesmer said Miller's car ran off the Littlestown Rd. for about 210 feet before striking the abutment and turning over with its wheels in the air. The auto was demolished. Miller has been charged by Trooper Mesmer with reckless driving and speed too great. The hearing will be held before Trial Magistrate Ernest Dukes, Westminster, at 10 a.m. February 13.

HEARING TODAY ON MINE BLAST

BISHOP, Va. (AP)—Coal miners, survivors of a gas explosion which killed 37 of their fellow workers Monday, tell of death in the dusty galleries at a hearing here today.

Julius Olzer, chief of the West Virginia Mine Bureau, will hold the hearing behind closed doors. He has completed his investigation in the winding corridors of the Pocahontas Fuel Co.'s Bishop mine. Two newsmen will sit in on the hearing. Olzer spent several hours deep in the sprawling mine again yesterday, but had no comment on the additional examination. There still was no official explanation as to what touched off the explosion.

The mine, one of Pocahontas' biggest producers in this area, remained closed. Work crews engaged in cleanup activities. Checks showed working conditions in the mine, which snakes under the Virginia-West Virginia border, were satisfactory. W. A. Fullerton, special assistant to the president of Pocahontas, said he did not know when mining operations would be resumed.

Dreary Weather For Eastern U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dreary midwinter weather — cloudy skies, fog and drizzle — continued today in wide areas in the eastern half of the nation. Generally fair weather was reported in most of the western areas although light snow fell from northern Idaho eastward across Montana into Western North Dakota. During the night fog blanketed much of the area from northern Texas to northern Illinois and eastward through Tennessee and the Ohio Valley to the Atlantic Coast. Drizzle and rain sprinkled many sections. No severe cold was reported and there was warning from the northern Great Lakes region to parts of northern New England.

Deliverers Vote To End 6-Day Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Newspaper and magazine deliverers have voted to end a six-day strike which curtailed distribution in the New York metropolitan area. They were expected back on the job today.

At a stormy meeting last night, members of the independent Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union by a voice vote accepted a once-rejected contract offer of newspaper and magazine wholesalers. It calls for a $9 weekly package for two years.

As Sam Feldman, union president, announced the result, some members shouted disagreement and several fist fights broke out. The strike of 1,200 men cut down newspaper deliveries to retail dealers, especially in the suburbs.

Mental Illness Research Is Begun

HARRISBURG (AP)—A research committee today began a study of the causes of mental illness and will advise the state's Mental Research Foundation of its findings.

Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro named the group yesterday. All will serve without compensation. Shapiro said the committee will select and supervise all research and training programs in mental health which have been approved by the foundation's trustees.

The committee includes Dr. John A. Sauer, Pennsylvania State University. On May 15, 1956, an RCAP plane crash atop a home for the aged in Orleans, Ont., killed fifteen, including eleven nuns.

Totem Pole Actress In "The Apple Cart"

Miss Stevenson succeeded Claudia Morgan as Amanda, and completed the Broadway run before going on the road. every line of business. Travel-conscious communities are rapidly exploiting the time-worn belief that tourists are important to only such enterprises as filling stations, hotels, motels and restaurants. It is time, of course, that the primary circulation of travel money is through the transporting, housing and feeding of visitors. But there is an important secondary distribution of this money that benefits virtually every business and profession in varying degree, as shown by figures compiled and distributed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Co-chairmen of the campaign are Lee M. Hartman and Paul G. Witt. The chairman of the Advisory committee is Henry M. Scharf. Division chairmen are R. A. Campbell, Walter B. yesterday's dinner hour, apparently in an argument between a convict and a guard. It spread quickly through the convict section of the prison. Authorities sealed off the administrative section. The convicts grabbed 27 hostages, including 18 members of a church basketball team which was playing a prison team; and four teachers who came from the outside to give lessons. Nine were released at intervals during the night as the convicts dickered before finally giving up and releasing the remaining 18. Warden Marcell Graham was in Washington to talk with FBI officials in the course of a tour of prisons. As he prepared to return to Utah, he said racial agitation was his only guess as to the cause of the uprising.

school nurses; state nurse, Mrs. Joseph Bushey; registered nurses, Mrs. Mark Deardorff and Mrs. Kenneth Slonaker, and nurses aides Mrs. Ira Henderson and Mrs. David Sanders.

Mrs. Kermit Slusser and Mrs. Lloyd Benner served as clerks at both of the clinics in Fairfield.

Similar clinics will be held at Fairfield High School Wednesday, March 6 to administer second shots to the school children. As on Wednesday, the March 6 program will include the inoculation of school children during school hours and a special session from 7 to 8 o'clock that evening at the school for pre-school and out-of-school children.

Two young men were admitted to the Warner Hospital after escaping serious injuries when the car in which they were riding hit a bridge abutment on the northeastern outskirts of Taneytown Wednesday evening. Airman Eugene Anthony Miller, 23, Emmitsburg R. 1, the driver suffered facial cuts and a possible fracture of the jaw. Joseph Sanders, 18, 316 E. Main St., Emmitsburg, sustained a fractured right leg and lacerations of the face. Miller was transferred to the Carlisle Barracks Hospital today. Maryland State Trooper Kenneth Mesmer said Miller's car ran off the Littlestown Rd. for about 210 feet before striking the abutment and turning over with its wheels in the air. The auto was demolished.

Miller has been charged by Trooper Mesmer with reckless driving and speed too great. The hearing will be held before Trial Magistrate Ernest Dukes, Westminster, at 10 a.m. February 13.

HEARING TODAY ON MINE BLAST

BISHOP, Va. (AP)—Coal miners, survivors of a gas explosion which killed 37 of their fellow workers Monday, tell of death in the dusty galleries at a hearing here today.

Julius Olzer, chief of the West Virginia Mine Bureau, will hold the hearing behind closed doors. He has completed his investigation in the winding corridors of the Pocahontas Fuel Co.'s Bishop mine. Two newsmen will sit in on the hearing.

Olzer spent several hours deep in the sprawling mine again yesterday, but had no comment on the additional examination. There still was no official explanation as to what touched off the explosion.

The mine, one of Pocahontas' biggest producers in this area, remained closed. Work crews engaged in cleanup activities. Checks showed working conditions in the mine, which snakes under the Virginia-West Virginia border, were satisfactory. W. A. Fullarton, special assistant to the president of Pocahontas, said he did not know when mining operations would be resumed.

Dreary Weather For Eastern U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dreary midwinter weather — cloudy skies, fog and drizzle — continued today in wide areas in the eastern half of the nation.

Generally fair weather was reported in most of the western areas although light snow fell from northern Idaho eastward across Montana into Western North Dakota.

During the night fog blanketed much of the area from northern Texas to northern Illinois and eastward through Tennessee and the Ohio Valley to the Atlantic Coast. Drizzle and rain sprinkled many sections.

No severe cold was reported and there was warming from the northern Great Lakes region to parts of northern New England.

Deliverers Vote To End 6-Day Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Newspaper and magazine deliverers have voted to end a six-day strike which curtailed distribution in the New York metropolitan area. They were expected back on the job today.

At a stormy meeting last night, members of the independent Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union by a voice vote accepted a once-rejected contract offer of newspaper and magazine wholesalers. It calls for a $9 weekly package for two years.

As Sam Feldman, union president, announced the result, some members shouted disagreement and several fist fights broke out. The strike of 1,200 men cut down newspaper deliveries to retail dealers, especially in the suburbs.

Mental Illness Research Is Begun

HARRISBURG (AP)—A research committee today began a study of the causes of mental illness and will advise the state's Mental Research Foundation of its findings.

Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro named the group yesterday. All will serve without compensation.

Shapiro said the committee will select and supervise all research and training programs in mental health which have been approved by the foundation's trustees. The committee includes Dr. John A. Sauer, Pennsylvania State University.

On May 15, 1956, an RCAP plane crash atop a home for the aged in Orleans, Ont., killed fifteen, including eleven nuns.

Totem Pole Actress In "The Apple Cart"

Margot Stevenson, who will be remembered for her performance in "The Fourposter" at the Totem Pole Playhouse last summer, has joined the road company of the Broadway hit play "The Apple Cart" by George Bernard Shaw, which started its tour in Philadelphia Monday. Miss Stevenson succeeded Claudia Morgan as Amanda, and completed the Broadway run before going on the road. Maurice Evans, the star of the show, left the company suddenly last week due to ill health, but expects to return soon. Also starring in the production is Signe Hasso.

every line of business. Travel-conscious communities are rapidly exploding the timeworn belief that tourists are important to only such enterprises as filling stations, hotels, motels and restaurants. It is time, of course, that the primary circulation of travel money is through the transporting, housing and feeding of visitors. But there is an important secondary distribution of this money that benefits virtually every business and profession in varying degree, as shown by figures compiled and distributed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Co-chairmen of the campaign are Lee M. Hartman and Paul G. Witt. The chairman of the Advisory committee is Henry M. Scharf. Division chairmen are R. A. Campbell, Walter B. Lane, Carl Schutt and Paul L. Spangler.

yesterday's dinner hour, apparently in an argument between a convict and a guard. It spread quickly through the convict section of the prison. Authorities sealed off the administrative section.

The convicts grabbed 27 hostages, including 13 members of a church basketball team which was playing a prison team; and four teachers who came from the outside to give lessons. Nine were released at intervals during the night as the convicts dickered before finally giving up and releasing the remaining 18.

Warden Marcell Graham was in Washington to talk with FBI officials in the course of a tour of prisons. As he prepared to return to Utah, he said racial agitation was his only guess as to the cause of the uprising.

Family Food Facts

It's time to take a new look at canned foods. We've seen them around, and used them since we were children. And, because the outside hasn't changed much in looks over the years, most of us don't realize that what's inside may have taken on a new look.

It was the canning industry which first changed our food habits. Menus no longer need be bound by season, or specific location. We are now able to have a variety of foods the year round from all around the country.

Buying Canned Vegetables

Maybe, the thought doesn't occur to you often, but there are differences in quality in the canned vegetables we buy. Just as there are in fresh vegetables that we easily see. When we buy canned vegetables, we usually choose the brand that we have found satisfactory. Just the same, there are standards of quality that whole-sale canned food buyers keep in mind when they decide which brand to stock. The canned vegetable trade often uses fancy, extra standard, and standard to describe the appearance of the products sold. Sometimes this information appears on the label, but more often it does not. Also, there are U. S. Government grades — A-B-C occasionally used to designate differences in canned vegetables.

Know The Facts

Cans are tailor-made for the products they contain. Canned foods are already prepared and ready to use. Canned foods are already prepared and ready to use — hot or cold. Canned foods retain much nutritive value. Canned foods will keep for long periods of time in a cool, dry place. It is safe to store opened cans, if covered, in a refrigerator for short periods of time. There are dietetic canned foods for those who need to count calories and watch their intake of salt. The liquid in the can is full of nutritive value. To retain it: Drain liquid in sauce pan; Boil quickly to reduce amount to 1/2 cup; add vegetables; heat quickly and season to your family's taste. Canned chop suey vegetables,

Canned corn comes in more ways than you would guess at first. First there is white and yellow sweet corn on store shelves. White corn is probably featured more often in Southeastern Pennsylvania. Corn is packed cream style, whole kernel, and dried evaporated.

Cream style white or yellow corn is graded on several points, but tenderness and maturity are the most important factors. If necessary, enough starch may be added to cream style corn to insure smoothness. When starch is added, that fact must be stated on the label.

With whole kernel corn, tenderness and maturity are the most important considerations. Fancy or Grade A corn means that kernels are in the early milk stage, not "dough like" as in standard or Grade C.

White "shoe peg" corn with small round kernels is packed in Maryland and southeastern Pennsylvania and is available especially in those regions. Many people like this type, and it is a pleasant variation to try if you are not familiar with it.

Look At Label

Look at the label to see which style of canned snap beans you are buying. They come packed many different ways — sometime whole, cut crosswise, cut lengthwise (French style), or mixed cuts.

Two distinctly different types of green peas are canned, and featured in almost all grocery stores. The peas which grow in the shortest time are the smooth skinned Alaska peas. They are often labeled "Early" or "June" peas. The other type is the later sweet wrinkled pea. The appearance of the smooth pea stands up better in the canning process, and these Alaska peas sell for a higher price than the wrinkled peas which actually have a sweeter flavor.

Canned tomatoes and other tomato products can vary in quality. The top grades are a good choice when you want bright color, whole tomatoes, or large pieces. The lower grades are wholesome, and are a thrifty choice for many uses including sauces, soups, stews, and casseroles.

COURT OF HONOR

Robert Hahn, Paul Bowman and James Kroh received the Star Scout awards at a Family Night and Court of Honor for Boy Scout Troop 84 Wednesday evening in the cafeteria of the Littlestown Junior-Senior High School with approximately 200 in attendance.

James Hahn, assistant scoutmaster, served as master of ceremonies. The program opened with pledge of allegiance by the group, led by Bruce Stair, senior patrol leader.

The address of welcome was given by Scoutmaster Edgar Edgar A. Wolfe, who also introduced District Representative William Kershner. Others introduced were David S. Kammerer, Post 84 advisor; John R. Rudisill, Noah V. Brown, Robert R. Rineaman, and Paul E. Renner, assistant Scoutmasters, and Luther D. Snyder, institutional representative.

First Webelos Den

Troop 84 committee members are Wilbur A. Bankert, Paul R. Snyder, Edwin A. Rebert, Paul L. Hollinger, Cloy I. Crouse and Charles E. Ritter. Cub Scout leaders present were Cubmaster Stewart N. Long and assistant Beaven P. Hanlon and with them were the members of the Cub Webelos Den Thomas Benner, Fred Snyder, James Bowman, Robert Hershey and William Ritter.

James Hahn spoke briefly concerning the work of the Webelos Den. Littlestown is the first in this area to have the Webelos. The first graduation from a Webelos was held two years ago and two members of that group, Robert Hahn and Paul Bowman, advanced to Star Scouts Wednesday evening.

Tenderfoot awards were presented by Scoutmaster Wolfe to Donald Selby, Douglas Gitt, Lloyd Bortner Jr., Timothy Reimann, James Ketterman, Anthony Gowan, Dwight Streib and Richard Myers; second class to Terry Crabbe; first class to Donald Arbogast and Jeffrey Breighner.

Notes From A DOCTOR'S Notebook

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

"Will I spoil Karen if I pick her up when she cries? We do not want a spoiled brat."

This question comes many times, and not only from mothers of first children, but from experienced mothers of several children.

We need to take a very careful look at what it is a young baby needs, and how we can go about supplying his needs — needs that must be supplied by somebody, his mother. A healthy baby can take care of his own inside workings all by himself. He can digest food, eliminate wastes, pump his blood around his body, breathe in air and breathe out what he does not need. But a baby cannot go after his food, cannot pull up the blanket if he is cold, nor push it off if he is too warm, he cannot clean himself up nor turn over to change his position. He needs some one to do all these things for him. And we don't even expect him to say thank you.

Mother's Care

The newborn hasn't learned about clocks and schedules and other people. What he wants is to be comfortable. If we can keep him comfortable he'll begin to learn that mother is nice, that when something bothers him mother comes and makes it all better.

If he can go through his early months and emerge with the conviction that mother (and daddy, too) are the source of all things good this baby of ours is started on the road to being a comfortable person himself, willing to ultimately help make others comfortable.

Do for your baby what your instincts tell you to do. Feed him when he is hungry, rock him if he is fretful, sing to him, cuddle him, make him comfortable and remember, he only wants you when something is the matter.

In the early months we cannot expect the baby to help himself nor to help us to take care of him.

Cuddle Him

Smiles, laughter, giggles of pleasure, comfortable relaxed sleep, these are the things the baby does in response to your loving care of him. He cannot control his bodily functions. He will soil himself, spit up some mouthfuls of nasty sour milk, drop things and so forth. We love him no matter what he does. We don't expect him to cooperate by controlling what it is beyond him to control. All we want from the baby is his peace and en-

Scoutmaster Wolfe also presented perfect attendance awards for one year to Paul Bowman, Nelson Freeman, Charles Hahn, Clay Rebert, Bruce Stair and Donald Arbogast and for two years to Robert Hahn and Pius Pautenis.

Appalachian Trail plaques were awarded to Douglas Crammer and Edward Knipple by Luther D. Snyder, institutional representative. One-year service stars were presented to Donald Arbogast, Bailey Barnhart, Billy Blocher, Terry Crabbe, Ronald Gladhill, Richard Hornberger, Charles Hahn, Jon Newman, Thomas Shilt, Ronald Smith, Jeffrey Breighner and Jack Kraft; two years, Fred Blocher, Richard Bankert, Paul Bowman, Woodrow Bowman, James Eline, Thomas Hartsock, Edward Hunter, Robert Hahn, James Kroh, Charles Mummert, Thomas Miller, Charles Rang, Joseph Rang, Bernard Stuller, Lawrence Snyder, David Slusser, Bernard Weaver and Richard Motter; three years, Gene Appier, Robert Benner, Douglas Crammer, James Evans, Nelson Freeman, Paul Hanlon, Edward Knipple, Samuel Long, James Mummert, Thomas Maitland, Pius Pautenis, Clay Rebert and Bruce Stair.

Dinner Guests Tonight

Senior patrol leaders' medallions and assistant scoutmasters' medallions were presented to these leaders.

Scoutmaster Wolfe presented the following Boy Scouts to Lee Krout, Senior Crew Leader of Post 84, which group they will join: Gene Appier, Douglas Crammer, James Evans, Nelson Freeman, Paul Hanlon, Edward Knipple, Samuel Long, Thomas Maitland, James Mummert, Pius Pautenis, Clay Rebert, Joseph Rang, Thomas Hartsock and Edward Hunter.

It was announced that the Troop members will be guests at a dinner meeting with the Rotary and Lions Clubs tonight at 6:30 at St. John's Lutheran Social Hall; also that there will be an Appalachian Trail hike on February 23. There were brief remarks by Mr. Kershner, Mr. Snyder and other Cub Scout officials. Movies of Scouting activities were shown by Assistant Scoutmaster Hahn. Refreshments were served with John R. Rudisill Sr. and Paul E. Renner in charge. Seating arrangements, tables, etc., were in charge of John R. Rudisill Jr., junior assistant scoutmaster.

The Associated Press

What's your problem? If you're a typical young modern you must have one, judging by the number of dilemmas that come via the postman.

There's that old problem — weight — and one girl writes:

"Every girl I know wears shorts. My parents say I am too hippy to wear them. They think they should be worn only by skinny girls. What can I do as I look out of place with the group when they are all wearing shorts and I must wear a skirt?"

Answer: The popularity of Ivy League stripes may solve your problem. Perhaps your parents would not mind your wearing striped shorts that should make you look slimmer. If dark stripes are at the hipline and lighter ones toward the center you may be able to pull off the camouflage very nicely.

Etiquette Problem

Boy-girl etiquette is another problem that bothers a girl. So, along comes this missive: "A boy calls me up in between dates. My parents say that I spend too much time on the phone talking to him, that he will not need to date me at all if he knows everything I do and have been thinking."

Answer: Your parents may be right about the boy losing interest. A boy likes to feel it is difficult to corral a girl's attention. If you give of your time so freely, perhaps he will move on to another telephone number. On the other hand a boy may be unable to date you more frequently because of lack of funds. In that case he may very well want to talk to you in between times. It would be a good idea to make sure that you are not keeping him on the phone, however. Some girls get into a comfortable position at the phone and then just hate to give up.

Money is another worrisome subject for students. A sophomore writes: "How much allowance should a 19-year-old girl be entitled to?"

Allowance Set

If parents have the funds, it is up to them to set their daughter's allowance. It should be determined too, on whether books, clothes and sundries must be taken out of it. If parents are scrupling to send their offspring to school as it is, the student should try to work in off-time so that complete dependence is not on the parent even for books and other necessities. Some parents do not wish to confess money problems to their young people, but it should be obvious.

Elvis Presley has become a bone of contention in some circles it seems, and a number of letters such as this one point up the troublesome aspects of liking the singer.

"Just because I like Elvis Presley two of my best friends have circled joyment of his comfort."

In the early months do for your baby, love him, comfort him and expect nothing in return. To a baby love is given completely free, we ask nothing from the baby, we make no demands upon him because we know he is not old enough to help us care for him. Love given to a baby is free, it asks for nothing in return.

Later, when the baby is older and able to control his actions we begin to expect things from him. Sometimes when we withhold tenderness and give it to good behavior — love then begins to have a price.

WASHINGTON (AP)—No big power—including the United States—is in a position to be overly self-righteous if Israel refuses to obey the United Nations' resolution calling on her to get out of Egyptian territory.

Secretary of State Dulles made headlines this week when — asked if this country would join in trying to punish a stubborn Israel by using sanctions against her — he left his answer up in the air. A careful reading of Dulles' answer shows it was so hedged that it was hardly an answer at all.

Suggests Confidence

He said the United States would not by itself involve sanctions against Israel and would certainly have to think about it if the U.N. members wanted to use sanctions. But Dulles on Tuesday and President Eisenhower on Wednesday expressed such confidence that Israel will obey the U.N. — although Israel is balking publicly — it's possible this country has assurance from Israel it will obey.

If their implied confidence turns out to be misplaced, the United States would have to be pretty self-righteous if it agreed to sanctions against Israel. And if Russia, Britain and France agreed, they'd look ridiculous.

Reviews Some History

The United States was one of those nations which, late last Saturday night in the U. N. approved the resolution against Israel. Israel argues that before it complies it wants guarantees Egypt won't use the vacated territory for attacks on Israel.

The United States joined others in the U. N. in 1951 in calling on Egypt to stop blockading the Suez Canal against Israeli shipping. Egypt ignored the U. N. and the U. N. let Egypt get away with it.

But if the United States and the U. N. at that time had backed up their position, the action might have avoided some of the present confusion in the Middle East and the Suez Canal of last November.

Other Violations

Russia is in no position to want to punish Israel for disobeying the U. N. She repeatedly has ignored U. N. demands to get her troops out of Hungary, where she sent them to crush a revolt.

Britain and France obeyed the U. N. and stopped their invasion of Egypt last November. But by their very invasion they made a joke of an agreement they had made with the United States in 1950.

At that time the three powers promised "immediate action" to stop violation of frontiers or armistice lines by Israelis or Arabs. For years afterwards Israelis and Arabs crossed each other's frontiers in savage raids. And none of the three powers attempted to live up to its 1950 agreement.

Instead Britain and France, which had vowed to stop shooting and aggression in the Middle East, joined with Israel in committing aggression against Egypt.

For her achievement, she will receive an award pin designed by Trifari of New York.

The national winner in the third annual search conducted among 300,526 young women in 11,636 of the nation's public, private and parochial high schools will be named May 2 at a banquet in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City.

Scholarships Offered

A total of $106,000 in scholarships will be awarded.

A $500 scholarship will be awarded the runner-up girls in each state. The school of the state winner will receive a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The scholarship of the young woman named All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be included a rumor that I am immature and stupid. What should I do?

Answer: The courage of your convictions is all you need. There are probably many other Elvis followers who will gravitate to your badwagon if you take a stout stand.

Gets Invitation To Prayer Breakfast

Dr. Joseph F. Thorning, former faculty member of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, associate editor of "World Affairs," and honorary professor of international relations in the Catholic University of Chile, accepted an invitation from Conrad Hilton, owner of the Hilton Hotel's system, to be his guest at the fifth annual Prayer Breakfast for President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the members of the Cabinet and other national leaders held at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, this morning. The President's Prayer Breakfast is sponsored by the International Christian Leadership Council, Washington.

The honorary president of the Council is Princess Wilhelmina of The Netherlands, and the active president is U. S. Senator Frank Carlson, of Kansas.

In November, 1955, Dr. Thorning delivered the invocation and opening address at the Council's first inter-American conference in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Dr. Thorning is rector of Carrollton Manor, near Frederick.

COMPANY MAKES BIG COMEBACK

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A coal company that branched into underwear and boots in 1955 to offset two years' losses totalling 10 million dollars has reported a profitable 8 million dollar comeback.

President Howard A. Newman of the Philadelphia and Reading Corp. said preliminary reports indicated the company earned more than 8 million dollars last year. He predicted the rising trend would keep on.

An anthracite producer, Philadelphia and Reading diversified in 1955 by purchasing the Union Underwear Co. and the Acme Boot Co. Its coal mining was continued under a subsidiary, Reading Anthracite Co., Inc.

Newman said Reading's five-million ton anthracite production in 1956 was 16.8 per cent higher than its nearest competitor and 12.1 per cent above the firm's 1955 output.

A preliminary earnings report showed $8,545,219 for all Philadelphia and Reading subsidiaries in 1956. This equals $6.97 a share. In 1955 the company lost $3,115,078 and in 1954 $7,324,031.

Newman said the firm has embarked on a $500,000 research program to make hydrogen gas of hard coal silt. He is completing his first year as president of the parent company.

GEORGE M'IVER,
ACTOR, KILLED

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—An automobile crash yesterday killed actor George M'iver III, 30, a native of New Hope, Pa.

He was the son of Mrs. Drummond Little of Baltimore and the nephew of R. S. McIver of Rosemont, Pa.

Seriously injured were another actor, Louis Miglioni, 36, New York, and the driver of a second car, Davis A. Tarrant, 46, Pedro Valley, Calif.

M'iver played the role of a prep school student in the original Broadway production of "Tea and Sympathy" in 1954. Later he toured in the national company in which Deborah Kerr starred.

Miglioni, son of a New Brunswick, N. J., automobile dealer, uses the stage name of Louis McMillan.

Increased to $5,000. This year for the first time girls who rank second, third and fourth in the national finals will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships, respectively.

Other girls who took the test were Marion Worley, Joan Bair and Mildred Hilker.

SCHOOL IN MICH. HAS CODE FOR PARENTS KIDS

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Tough guardians of teen-age behavior — teen-agers themselves — have worked out a "police yourself" code of conduct here.

And with eager cooperation from their parents, the kids are making the code work.

It's the project of 1,058 students at Muskegon Catholic Central High School, working with an organization of parents called the Holy Family Assn.

The object is to guide teen-age conduct without curtailing normal activities of the younger set. The code covers matters from public displays of affection (NO) to letting parents in on whereabouts (YES.)

Rules For Parents

Parents too have their rules — like encouraging children to make their social center at home instead of the corner drugstore, and staying home when the young people entertain.

The Rev. Louis LaPres, school principal, says the codes have been a "tremendous help." As worked out by the parents group and approved by the students, and rules ask parents to:

Insist their children not attend parties uninvited and to ban home party crashers; to impound alcoholic beverages, ban after-date parties; agree on party closing hours and furnish transportation for 9th and 10th graders.

In turn, the students are pledged to refrain from public displays of affection with dates; abstain from alcoholic beverages and refuse rides with students who do drink; adhere to estimated times of return from social affairs.

An hours clause, ending informal and home parties at 11:30 p.m., aims at breaking the upstart custom of entertaining high schoolers at night-long "open houses" on prom nights.

The closing hours clause aims at school events, but leaves return home time for teen-agers up to individual families.

Student leaders are proud of the way the code is working. Tom McDermott, 17-year-old president of the school's student council, says other schools are seeking information on Muskegon Catholic's code.

"What we're doing could influence our own area," Tom said, "and I think by the example we set, we could push its influence even further."

This isn't the first trail-blazing action on the school. Father LaPres helped inaugurate a student credit union that was believed to be the first of its kind. Accounting and bookkeeping students taking business courses help manage the credit union. It emphasizes savings but loans are available for such teen-age emergencies as financing a big date.

WIRE TAPPING BILL OFFERED

HARRISBURG (AP) — A proposal to outlaw wiretapping in Pennsylvania was before the Senate for discussion today.

The measure given unanimous was sent to the Senate floor with the provision it be returned to committee in two weeks and that public hearings then be held.

"This will give the lawmakers a chance to see the sentiment of the public toward this measure and I'm sure it will be in favor of its passage," said Sen. Harry E. Seyler (D-York).

Sen. Benjamin R. Donolow (D-Phila.) who joined with Seyler in sponsoring the bill, said he welcomed the public hearings and predicted "the people will back it."

The law would prohibit the use

COMMIE PRESS NAMES CARDINAL

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary's official Communist newspaper has accused Josef Cardinal Mindszenty—a refugee in the U. S. legation—of ordering the dismissal of 18 priests who had been cooperating with the Red regime.

There was no immediate reaction from legation officials. It was assumed that the Americans had requested the cardinal to refrain from outside church or political activities while in refuge with them.

Dismisses Priests

The paper, Nepszabadsag, mouthpiece of Premier Janos Kadar's regime, claimed Mindszenty sent instructions from the legation in mid-December dismissing the priests and denying them the right to take part in public affairs.

The paper said the bishops at Vac and Szekesfeharvar, two cities near Budapest, dismissed of wiretapping devices by individuals or police in Pennsylvania.

Both Seyler and Donolow earlier has described wiretapping as a "dirty practice" and one that infringes on the rights of individuals.

Beauty for Miss & Mrs.

By Vivian Brown
The Associated Press

Working girls are outstanding for their fastidiousness, but often neglectful in hand care. Strangely paradoxical perhaps, but true. The typist who works with carbon paper often goes out to lunch with hands smudged, the factory worker is likely to eat her sandwich in the locker room using grimy fingers, the file clerk is spotted every time for broken fingernails and ragged hangnails.

Time is of the essence for the working girl who often must crank phone calls into a short lunch hour and doesn't have time to wash her hands.

Even in the world of photographic models pretty hands are the "democratic and progressive-minded priests."

Nepszabadsag implied the cardinal also had threatened church action against Roman Catholics outside the clergy who supported the Communist government.

at a premium. Whenever an advertiser orders a hand model job, photographers are often at a loss for a model. Even if the average model looks good, they are likely not pretty enough for close scrutiny.

Clean Hands

Housewives may display clean hands due to frequent immersion in soapy water, but other hand problems result from household chores — redness, chapping, broken fingernails.

The average woman may find it a chore to keep hands in shape because, unlike makeup for the face, hand grooming aids are not kept at the fingertips. A little kit in the locker or desk at the office, or in the kitchen cupboard may make one mindful of hand beauty.

If you do not like to invest in hand cream only, get one labeled hand and body lotion. Use it on legs, arms and neck besides your hands. One petal pink lotion has been especially formulated to lubricate dried-out skin, also beneficial for brittle fingernails and for softening the cuticle.

Set Pattern

An easy way to keep the hands looking pretty is through a connective idea pattern. Push the cuticle back when you wash your hands or bathe in the morning, use the emery board when you are relaxing at the radio or at

"Do-It-Yourself" Is Boosting Accidents

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A Michigan surgeon says that men who accidentally trim their feet while they try to trim their grass are becoming a major medical problem.

Dr. Franklin V. Wade, Flint, Mich., surgeon and injury expert, made the statement in a speech before the Oklahoma Academy of General Practice.

He emphasized that accidents resulting from the use of power mowers are adding to the mounting total of home accident cases.

"There is a definite increase in wounds as a result of the do-it-yourself move," Wade said, "and home power saw and mower injuries are keeping doctors busy."

SCHOOL IN MICH. HAS CODE FOR PARENTS KIDS

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Tough guardians of teen-age behavior — teen-agers themselves — have worked out a "police yourself" code of conduct here.

And with eager cooperation from their parents, the kids are making the code work.

It's the project of 1,058 students at Muskegon Catholic Central High School, working with an organization of parents called the Holy Family Assn.

The object is to guide teen-age conduct without curtailing normal activities of the younger set. The code covers matters from public displays of affection (NO) to letting parents in on whereabouts (YES.)

Rules For Parents

Parents too have their rules — like encouraging children to make their social center at home instead of the corner drugstore, and staying home when the young people entertain.

The Rev. Louis LaPres, school principal, says the codes have been a "tremendous help." As worked out by the parents group and approved by the students, and rules ask parents to:

Insist their children not attend parties uninvited and to ban home party crashers; to impound alcoholic beverages, ban after-date parties; agree on party closing hours and furnish transportation for 9th and 10th graders.

In turn, the students are pledged to refrain from public displays of affection with dates; abstain from alcoholic beverages and refuse rides with students who do drink; adhere to estimated times of return from social affairs.

An hours clause, ending informal and home parties at 11:30 p.m., aims at breaking the up-

COMMIE PRESS NAME SCARDINAL

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary's official Communist newspaper has accused Josef Cardinal Mindszenty — a refugee in the U. S. — of ordering the dismissal of 18 priests who had been cooperating with the Red regime.

There was no immediate reaction from legation officials. It was assumed that the Americans had requested the cardinal to refrain from outside church or political activities while in refuge with them.

The paper Nepszabadsag, mouthpiece of Premier Janos Kadar's regime, claimed Mindszenty sent instructions from the legation in mid-December dismissing the priests and denying them the right to take part in public affairs.

The paper said the bishops at Vac and Szekesfeharvar, two cities near Budapest, dismissed of wiretapping devices by individuals or police in Pennsylvania. Both Seyler and Donolow earlier has described wiretapping as a "dirty practice" and one that infringes on the rights of individuals.

The measure given unanimous was sent to the Senate floor with the provision it be returned to committee in two weeks and that public hearings then be held.

"This will give the lawmakers a chance to see the sentiment of the public toward this measure and I'm sure it will be in favor of its passage," said Sen. Harry E. Seyler (D-York).

Sen Benjamin R. Donolow (D-Phila.) who joined with Seyler in sponsoring the bill, said he welcomed the public hearings and predicted "the people will back it."

The law would prohibit the use of wiretapping devices by individuals or police in Pennsylvania.

Beauty for Miss & Mrs.

By Vivian Brown
The Associated Press

Working girls are outstanding for their fastidiousness, but often neglectful in hand care. Strangely paradoxical perhaps, but true.

The typist who works with carbon paper often goes out to lunch with hands smudged, the factory worker is likely to eat her sandwich in the locker room using grimy fingers, the file clerk is spotted every time for broken fingernails and ragged hangnails.

Time is of the essence for the working girl who often must cram phone calls into a short lunch hour and doesn't have time to wash her hands.

Even in the world of photographic models pretty hands are the "democratic and progressive-minded priests."

Nepszabadsag implied the cardinal also had threatened church action against Roman Catholics outside the clergy who supported the Communist government.

at a premium. Whenever an advertiser orders a hand model job, photographers are often at a loss for a model. Even if the average model's hands look good, they are likely not pretty enough for close scrutiny.

Clean Hands

Housewives may display clean hands due to frequent immersion in soapy water, but other hand problems result from household chores — redness, chapping, broken fingernails.

The average woman may find it a chore to keep hands in shape because, unlike makeup for the face, hand grooming aids are not kept at the fingertips. A little kit in the locker or desk at the office, or in the kitchen cupboard may make one mindful of hand beauty.

If you do not like to invest in hand cream only, get one labeled hand and body lotion. Use it on legs, arms and neck besides your hands. One petal pink lotion has been especially formulated to lubricate dried-out skin, also beneficial for brittle fingernails and for softening the cuticle.

Set Pattern

An easy way to keep the hands looking pretty is through a connective idea pattern. Push the cuticle back when you wash your hands or bathe in the morning, use the emery board when you are relaxing at the radio or at

"Do-It-Yourself" Is Boosting Accidents

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A Michigan surgeon says that men who accidentally trim their feet while they try to trim their grass are becoming a major medical problem.

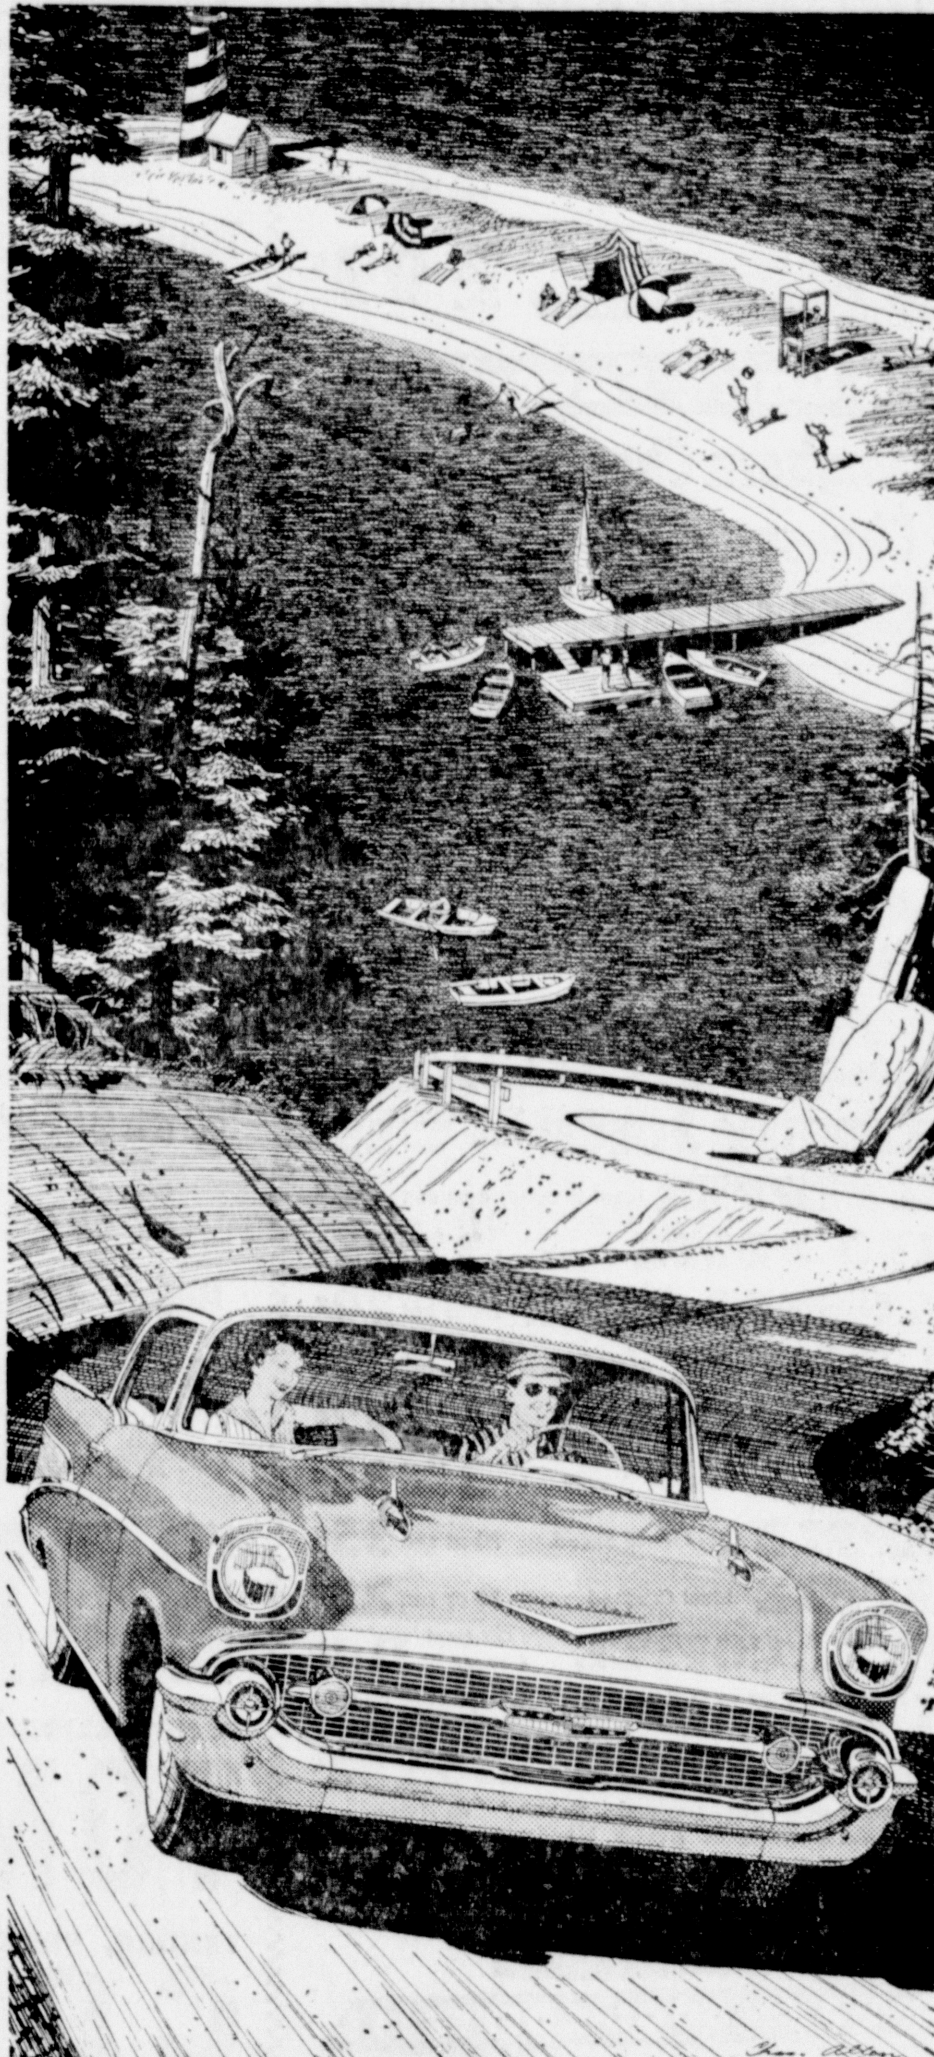

Dr. Franklin V. Wade, Flint, Mich., surgeon and injury expert, made the statement in a speech before the Oklahoma Academy of General Practice.

He emphasized that accidents resulting from the use of power mowers are adding to the mounting total of home accident cases.

"There is a definite increase in wounds as a result of the do-it-yourself move," Wade said, "and home power saw and mower injuries are keeping doctors busy."

Notes From A DOCTOR'S Notebook

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
The Associated Press

"Will I spoil Karen if I pick her up when she cries? We do not want a spoiled brat."

This question comes many times, and not only from mothers of first children, but from experienced mothers of several children.

We need to take a very careful look at what it is a young baby needs, and how we can go about supplying his needs — needs that must be supplied by somebody, his mother. A healthy baby can take care of his own inside workings all by himself. He can digest food, eliminate wastes, pump his blood around his body, breathe in air and breathe out what he does not need. But a baby cannot go after his food, cannot pull up the blanket if he is cold, nor push it off if he is too warm, he cannot clean himself up nor turn over to change his position. He needs some one to do all these things for him. And we don't even expect him to say thank you.

Mother's Care
The newborn hasn't learned about clocks and schedules and other people. What he wants is to be comfortable. If we can keep him comfortable he'll begin to learn that mother is nice, that when something bothers him mother comes and makes it all better.

If he can go through his early months and emerge with the conviction that mother (and daddy, too) are the source of all things good this baby of ours is started on the road to being a comfortable person himself, willing to ultimately help make others comfortable.

Do for your baby what your instincts tell you to do. Feed him when he is hungry, rock him if he is fretful, sing to him, cuddle him, make him comfortable and remember, he only wants you when something is the matter.

In the early months we cannot expect the baby to help himself nor to help us to take care of him.

Cuddle Him
Smiles, laughter, giggles of pleasure, comfortable relaxed sleep, these are the things the baby does in response to your loving care of him. He cannot control his bodily functions. He will soil himself, spit up some mouthfuls of nasty sour milk, drop things and so forth. We love him no matter what he does. We don't expect him to cooperate by controlling what it is beyond him to control. All we want from the baby is his peace and en-

It was announced that the Troop members will be guests at a dinner meeting with the Rotary and Lions Clubs tonight at 6:30 at St. John's Lutheran Social Hall; also that there will be an Appalachian Trail hike on February 23. There were brief remarks by Mr. Kershner, Mr. Snyder and other Cub Scout officials. Movies of Scouting activities were shown by Assistant Scoutmaster Hahn. Refreshments were served with John R. Morgan Andreas of the Evangelical and Reformed Church will speak on "Is Divorce Ever the Best Way Out?" next Wednesday.

The boys will oppose Mt. Airy Friday and will play Robert Motion on the Taneytown court next Tuesday.

The Associated Press
What's your problem?

If you're a typical young modern you must have one, judging by the number of dilemmas that come via the postman.

There's that old problem — weight — and one girl writes: "Every girl I know wears shorts. My parents say I am too hippy to wear them. They think they should be worn only by skinny girls. What can I do as I look out of place with the group when they are all wearing shorts and I must wear a skirt?"

Answer: The popularity of Ivy League stripes may solve your problem. Perhaps your parents would not mind your wearing striped shorts that should make you look slimmer. If dark stripes are at the hip line and lighter ones toward the center you may be able to pull off the camouflage very nicely.

Etiquette Problem
Boy-girl etiquette is another problem that bothers a girl. So along comes this missive: "A boy calls me up in between dates. My parents say that I spend too much time on the phone talking to him, that he will not need to date me at all if he knows everything I do and have been thinking."

Answer: Your parents may be right about the boy losing interest. A boy likes to feel it is difficult to corral a girl's attention. If you give of your time so freely, perhaps he will move on to another telephone number. On the other hand a boy may be unable to date you more frequently because of lack of funds. In that case he may very well want to talk to you in between times. It would be a good idea to make sure that you are not keeping him on the phone, however. Some girls get into a comfortable position at the phone and then just hate to give up.

Money is another worrisome subject for students. A sophomore writes: "How much allowance should a 19-year-old girl be entitled to?"

Allowance Set
If parents have the funds, it is up to them to set their daughter's allowance. It should be determined too, on whether books, clothes and sundries must be taken out of it. If parents are scrimping to send their offspring to school as it is, the student should try to work in off-time so that complete dependence is not on the parent even for books and other necessities. Some parents do not wish to confess money problems to their young people, but it should be obvious.

Elvis Presley has become a bone of contention in some circles it seems, and a number of letters such as this one point up the troublesome aspects of liking the singer.

"Just because I like Elvis Presley two of my best friends have circled joyment of his comfort."

In the early months do for your baby, love him comfort him and expect nothing in return. To a baby love is given completely free, we ask nothing from the baby, we make no demands upon him because we know he is not old enough to help us care for him. Love given to a baby is free, it asks for nothing in return.

Later, when the baby is older and able to control his actions we begin to expect things from him. Sometimes when we withhold tenderness and give it to good behavior — love then begins to have a price.

James MARLOW Reports

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—No big power—including the United States—is in a position to be overly self-righteous if Israel refuses to obey the United Nations' resolution calling on her to get out of Egyptian territory.

Secretary of State Dulles made headlines this week when — asked if this country would join in trying to punish a stubborn Israel by using sanctions against her — he left his answer up in the air. A careful reading of Dulles' answer shows it was so hedged that it was hardly an answer at all.

Suggests Confidence
He said the United States would not by itself invoke sanctions against Israel and would certainly have to think about it if the U.N. members wanted to use sanctions.

But Dulles on Tuesday and President Eisenhower on Wednesday expressed such confidence that Israel will obey the U.N. — although Israel is balking publicly — it's possible this country has assurance from Israel it will obey.

If their implied confidence turns out to be misplaced, the United States would have to be pretty self-righteous if it agreed to sanctions against Israel. And if Russia, Britain and France agreed, they'd look ridiculous.

Reviews Some History
The United States was one of those nations which, late last Saturday night in the U.N., approved the resolution against Israel. Israel argues that before it complies it wants guarantees Egypt won't use the vacated territory for attacks on Israel.

The United States joined others in the U.N. in 1951 in calling on Egypt to stop blockading the Suez Canal against Israeli shipping. Egypt ignored the U.N. and the U.N. let Egypt get away with it.

But if the United States and the U.N. at that time had backed up their position, the action might have avoided some of the present confusion in the Middle East and the Suez Canal of last November.

Other Violations
Russia is in no position to want to punish Israel for disobeying the U.N. She repeatedly has ignored U.N. demands to get her troops out of Hungary, where she sent them to crush a revolt.

Britain and France obeyed the U.N. and stopped their invasion of Egypt last November. But by their very invasion they made a joke of an agreement they had made with the United States in 1950.

At that time the three powers promised "immediate action" to stop violation of frontiers or armistice lines by Israelis or Arabs. For years afterwards Israelis and Arabs savaged each other's frontiers in savage raids. And none of the three powers attempted to live up to its 1950 agreement.

Instead Britain and France, which had vowed to stop shooting and aggression in the Middle East, joined with Israel in committing aggression against Egypt.

ELLEN BECK IS AWARD WINNER

The Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow in Littlestown High School is Ellen Beck.

She received the highest score in a written examination on home-making knowledge and attitudes, administered December 4, to senior girls in the graduating class. Her examination paper will be entered in competition to name this state's candidate for the title of All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and will also be considered for the runner-up award in the state. For her achievement, she will receive an award pin designed by Trifari of New York.

The national winner in the third annual search conducted among 300,526 young women in 11,636 of the nation's public, private and parochial high schools will be named May 2 at a banquet in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City.

Scholarships Offered
General Mills is sponsor of the program designed to assist schools in education for home and family living and to emphasize through a sound scholarship award program the personal qualities and sense of values necessary to successful home-making. A total of $106,000 in scholarships will be awarded.

Each state Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow will receive a $1,500 scholarship and an educational trip with her school advisor to Washington, D. C., colonial Williamsburg, Va., and New York City. A $500 scholarship will be awarded the runner-up girls in each state. The school of the state winner will receive a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The scholarship of the young woman named All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be in-lated a rumor that I am immature and stupid. What should I do? Answer: The courage of your convictions is all you need. There are probably many other Elvis followers who will gravitate to your bandwagon if you take a stout stand.

Gets Invitation To Prayer Breakfast

Dr. Joseph F. Thorning, former faculty member of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, associate editor of "World Affairs," and honorary professor of international relations in the Catholic University of Chile, accepted an invitation from Conrad Hilton, owner of the Hilton Hotels' system, to be his guest at the fifth annual Prayer Breakfast for President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the members of the Cabinet and other national leaders held at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, this morning. The President's Prayer Breakfast is sponsored by the International Christian Leadership Council, Washington.

The honorary president of the Council is Princess Wilhelmina of The Netherlands, and the active president is U. S. Senator Frank Carlson, of Kansas.

In November, 1955, Dr. Thorning delivered the invocation and opening address at the Council's first international conference in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Dr. Thorning is rector of Carrollton Manor, near Frederick.

COMPANY MAKES BIG COMEBACK

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A coal company that branched into underwear and boots in 1955 to offset two years' losses totalling 10 million dollars has reported a profitable 8 million dollar comeback.

President Howard A. Newman of the Philadelphia and Reading Corp. said preliminary reports indicated the company earned more than 8 million dollars last year. He predicted the rising trend would keep on.

An anthracite producer, Philadelphia and Reading diversified in 1955 by purchasing the Union Underwear Co. and the Acme Boot Co. Its coal mining was continued under a subsidiary, Reading Anthracite Co., Inc.

Newman said Reading's five-million ton anthracite production in 1956 was 16.8 per cent higher than its nearest competitor and 12.1 per cent above the firm's 1955 output.

A preliminary earnings report showed $8,545,219 for all Philadelphia and Reading subsidiaries in 1956. This equals $6.97 a share. In 1955 the company lost $3,115,078 and in 1954 $7,324,031.

Newman said the firm has embarked on a $500,000 research program to make hydrogen gas of hard coal silt. He is completing his first year as president of the parent company.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—An automobile crash yesterday killed actor George M'iver III, 30, a native of New Hope, Pa.

He was the son of Mrs. Drummond Little of Baltimore and the nephew of R. S. McIver of Rosemont, Pa.

Seriously injured were another actor, Louis Mighorini, 36, New York, and the driver of a second car, Davis A. Tarrant, 46, Pedro Valley, Calif.

McIver played the role of a prep school student in the original Broadway production of "Tea and Sympathy" in 1954. Later he toured in the national company in which Deborah Kerr starred.

Mighorini, son of a New Brunswick, N. J., automobile dealer, uses the stage name of Louis McMillan.

Increased to $5,000. This year for the first time girls who rank second, third and fourth in the national finals will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships, respectively.

Other girls who took the test were Marion Worley, Joan Bair and Mildred Hilker.

City Makes It Easy To Pay Dollar Fines

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP)—By the end of the week motorists who are fined $1 for parking overtime in metered zones will find it a simple matter to ante up.

Altoona's city fathers have ordered 32 special collection boxes set up throughout the community.

Policemen will include a "collection envelope" with their tags. All the erring motorists have to do is put a dollar bill in the envelopes and drop them in the new boxes.

Immigration Now Streamlined, Old Frontier Flavor Is Gone

CHICAGO (P) — During recent weeks the United States has spread out a red carpet for Hungarians fleeing oppression in their native country and seeking a new start in America.

Vice President Nixon toured refugee camps in Austria, giant transport planes lifted the immigrants across the Atlantic, the arriving Hungarians were interviewed to match their skills with offers of jobs coming in from across the nation.

Immigration to the United States was not always such a smooth and well-oiled operation, but it has been an adventure.

Eighty years ago a homeless Hungarian was apt to be met, if he was lucky, by a railroad agent whose colorful wares were maps of the West.

Wonders Unfolded

Unfolding them, the agent would show the American-to-be the wonders of the prairies, the Rocky Mountains and the green valleys beyond.

The first atlas of this kind contained maps of 17 states and territories and today is a rare collector's item.

A reproduction of the maps is just off the presses of Rand McNally and Co.

Andrew McNally III, great-grandson of the founder and now president of the firm, says the huge folio edition of 5,000 copies was produced after a survey disclosed only six copies of the original 1876-77 Atlas were known to be available to historians and lovers of Americana.

Called a "Pioneer Atlas of the American West," it graphically illustrates the westward movement. Proposed railroads, old wagon trails, locations of forts and gold fields are shown. The text is by Dale L. Morgan.

The original atlas contained maps

based on government sponsored land surveys. It represented a new phase in the development of the Old West. The era of early exploration was coming to an end. The scalping Indian no longer was a serious threat to pioneers and prospectors in the Black Hills.

Maps of Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico, Texas, California, Nevada, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington and Alaska showed the emigrant where to locate.

The promotional material on the folder said millions of acres of land were available at bargain prices of $2.80 to $4.00 per acre.

On the folder containing the maps and route of the Northern Pacific Railroad the emigrant could study the following:

"The best time to come to the Golden Northwest, either Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, Washington or Oregon on the line of the Northern Pacific, is in the spring. But farmers can come to this favorable region at any time, properly outfitted and make a fortune.

"The breaking season extends from about May 15 to July 15. Three horses or mules, each weighing from 1,200 pounds, upwards, or two yoke of oxen, constitutes a good breaking team for sulky or plow.

"The settler opening a new farm can always find plenty of work among his neighbors after he has done his own breaking and back-setting (plowing) and cut his hay.

"Liberal provision is made by law for schools and the towns and country settlements; schoolhouses and churches of the several denominations abound. The people who come to this country believe in these institutions."

FACES CHARGES OF "LAXITY" IN GUARDING DATA

ATLANTA (P)—Charges of laxity in security regulations and the safeguarding of military information have been placed against Col. John Nickerson Jr., chief of field coordination services at Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala.

Third Army headquarters with-held details of the charges in making its announcement yesterday. The announcement did say, however, that the West Point graduate of 1938 had been relieved of his duties at Huntsville and that a formal investigation is being made to determine whether a court-martial is warranted.

Nickerson was assigned to the Army ballistic agency.

Had Secret Data

On Jan. 7 the Army disclosed that a document which "apparently contained secret information" on the Army's roles and missions had been found "in the hands of unauthorized persons" and that it was "investigating a possible violation of security regulations by Nickerson, 'among others'."

The Army said the document discussed a decision of Defense Secretary Wilson which limited Army use of missiles to those assigned specifically to anti-aircraft defense and to weapons with a range of no more than 200 miles.

Wilson's order was issued in November. Pentagon sources said last month that Army people displeased by the order distributed several papers highly critical of the defense secretary's stand. The Army itself declined to comment.

NO SECRET SESSIONS

HARRISBURG (P)—Senate committee approval was given on Tuesday to a proposal that all meetings of governing bodies of public authorities be open to the public.

MURDER SUSPECT FREED ON BOND

CHICAGO (P) — Edward Lee (Bennie) Bedwell, who signed and then retracted a confession admitting the slaying of Barbara Grimes 15 and her sister Patricia, 13, was released Tuesday from Cook County Jail on $20,000 bond.

Bond for the 21-year-old Skid Row odd jobs man was arranged by Morris Brown, Champaign, Ill., a professional bondsman, who told reporters he believes Bedwell is innocent.

Bond for Bedwell, who had been in custody since Jan. 23, was set last Saturday by Chief Justice Wilbert P. Crowley in Criminal Court on a habeas corpus writ. Another hearing on a petition for his outright release will be held Feb. 19.

Meanwhile police had no leads in the mysterious slayings of the two girls. The sisters disappeared from home Dec. 28 and an analysis of one girl's stomach contents was said by a toxicologist to indicate she died the same night.

Change Control Of 39 Airway Beacons

HARRISBURG (P) — The State Aeronautical Commission will take over today with plans to take over operation and maintenance of 39 airway beacons now operated by the Civil Aeronautics Commission.

Atty. Gen. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. head of the state commission, said Tuesday the move will "provide operation of all safety aids possible for airmen." The beacons indicate traffic routes to pilots.

Biddle said the CAA has been disbanding use of all beacons except those at airports and intermediate landing fields.

PRODUCTION IN RUSSIA LAGS BELOW GOALS

By THOMAS P. WHITEY

NEW YORK (P)—The Kremlin's production goals for 1957 give a good indication of how greatly the sixth five-year plan overestimated the Soviet Union's ability to expand output.

In announcing the 1957 economic plan to the current session of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), economic czar Mikhail Pervukhin gave no revised goals for the five-year period ending Dec. 31, 1960.

But if production increases from now on by no more than the additional amount anticipated for 1957, the 1960 output of some basic industrial products would stack up this way as compared with the targets announced a year ago (figures in millions of metric tons):

	Original	Goal Revised
Coal	593	497
Steel	68	60
Pig Iron	53	45
Petroleum	135	137
Electricity	320	288

(Last figure in billions of kilowatt hours)

A Lot Of Steel

It can be estimated similarly that Pervukhin's revised plan involves increasing total industrial output 40 to 50 per cent by 1960. The original plan called for a 65 per cent increase over 1955.

In this set of estimates, petroleum is the only one of the five basic items for which the Kremlin's original goal remains. Soviet oil output has soared annually in recent years.

Even these revised goals would represent a very large increase in production. Fifteen million more tons of steel in the space of five years is a lot of steel.

There is also the possibility that the Soviet Union will be able to raise its rate of production increase — in the output of steel and electric power, for example — above that set for 1957. But the fact remains that the Kremlin has been compelled to lower its sights in the field of industrial development.

STOCK PRICES SINK

NEW YORK (P)—The stock market was narrowly lower in moderate early trading today.

Leading issues were off fractions to a point but there was an increasing number of gainers.

After an active opening with most key stocks either lower or unchanged, steels and motors began to show some improvement.

Most of the leaders in these two divisions were either ahead a bit or about unchanged but the rest of the market was preponderantly on the downside.

for diabetes.

Ever since diabetes was discovered about 1552 B.C., some 200 years before the birth of King Tut, charlatans have claimed they had a "cure." Beware of all such claims. In 1921, however, a dependable treatment, although not a cure, was developed for diabetes. This preparation is Insulin.

Your physician is thoroughly familiar with this product and how it is employed to control diabetes. If he finds Insulin necessary in your case, we can supply it in exactly the right strength.

GOP PLANS NO OFFICIAL POLICY ON SHORTWAY

HARRISBURG (AP)—Speaker W. Stuart Helm (R-Armstrong) says the Republican party will adopt no official policy on the proposed Keystone Shortway between Stroudsburg and Sharon.

Helm added last night that no action was planned in the House "in the immediate future" on two opposing resolutions on the 212-mile highway proposal.

"We have two ideas before us right now and they require study," Helm said. "I don't anticipate any action in the immediate future."

The House Rules Committee, which includes Helm, has before it one resolution asking for House endorsement of the road and one asking the House to "deplore" the proposal. Both were submitted by Republicans.

Z. H. Confair, of Williamsport, chairman of the Keystone Shortway Assn., yesterday called on the committee to keep the anti-shortway resolution from going to the floor.

"Against Shortway"
He said to let the resolution out of committee "would look as though the Republican party is against the shortway. We know this is not true."

Confair said the shortway was endorsed by both gubernatorial candidates in 1954.

Bur Harry G. Garvin, chairman of the "Save Route 6" committee, said at Bradford that this was not so.

"It is the committee's understanding that any reference to the Keystone Route in the 1954 gubernatorial campaign was in contemplation of legislation actually passed in 1955 authorizing the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to build the route as part of the Pennsylvania toll turnpike system."

No Declaration
"To the knowledge of the committee there has been no official declaration by either party endorsing the Keystone Shortway as part of the federal interstate system."

The shortway as now proposed would be toll-free. It has been endorsed by Gov. Leader, the State Highways Department and the district director of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Don C. Rarick of McKeesport, Pa., who is seeking the presidency of the United Steelworkers Union in next Tuesday's election, called for "honest elections in all local unions" at a meeting in nearby Struthers last night.

He accused union leaders of holding "phony elections" and said USW President David McDonald, who is seeking re-election, had offered him "everything but the international's treasury to get out of the fight for the presidency."

He added that many of his supporters had been offered high-paying union posts by McDonald.

Heads Protest
Rarick heads a dues protest committee which was formed last year after union dues were boosted from three dollars to five dollars a month.

He suggested a possible Senate investigation of the steelworkers union and said such a probe would "make the I.L.A. look like a Sunday School picnic." The International Longshoremen's Assn. has been the target of numerous investigations into alleged misconduct in union management.

He quoted McDonald as saying at a New Year's Eve meeting at the union president's home that he would "destroy anything that got in his way."

RUSSIA AGAIN SHIPPING ARMS TO EGYPTIANS

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is reported to have resumed arms shipments to Egypt in recent weeks in what appears to be a move to rebuild President Nasser's battered armed forces.

Top American officials who disclosed this today said, however, they could not be sure whether the shipments represent a new purchase or additional deliveries under a 250-million-dollar contract disclosed in September 1955.

There have been rumors, but no confirmation, of a second such deal.

The officials said they have evidence of deliveries of medium tanks, artillery, personnel carriers and probably jet fighters.

Great Secrecy
These weapons are understood to have been unloaded in crates from Communist ships amid great secrecy, mainly at the Egyptian port of Alexandria.

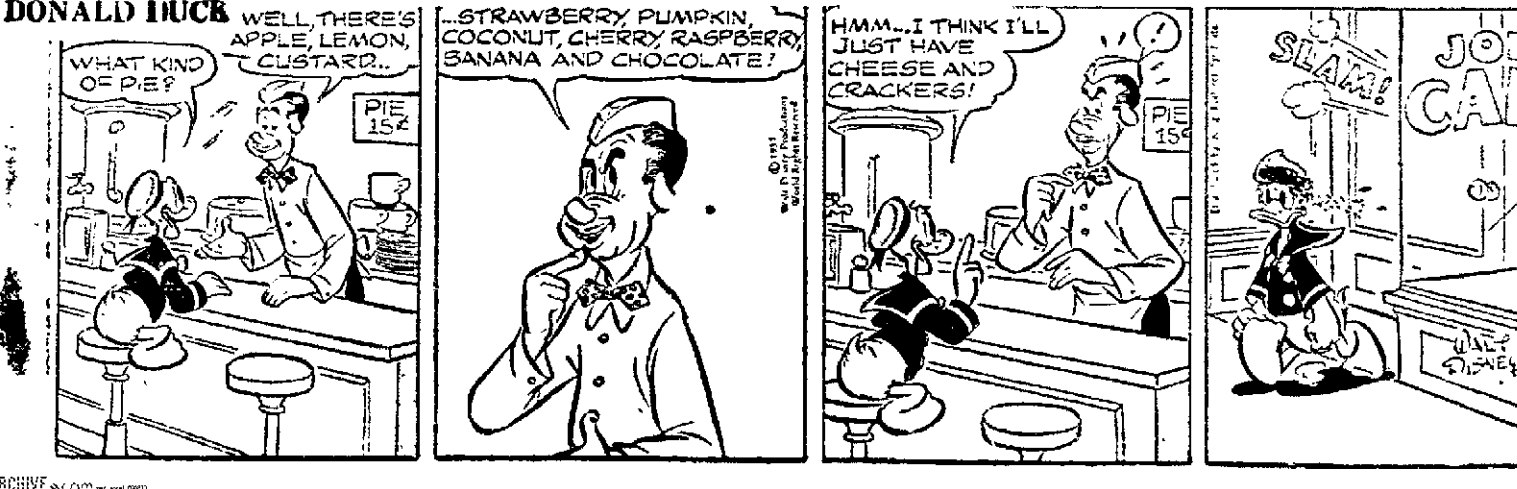

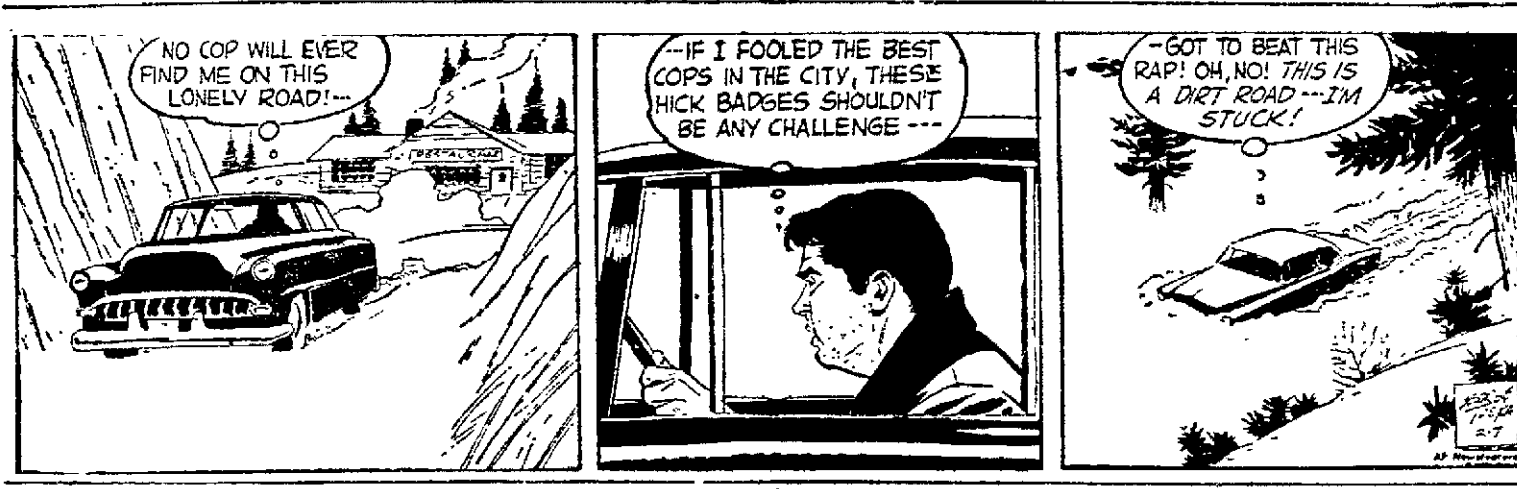

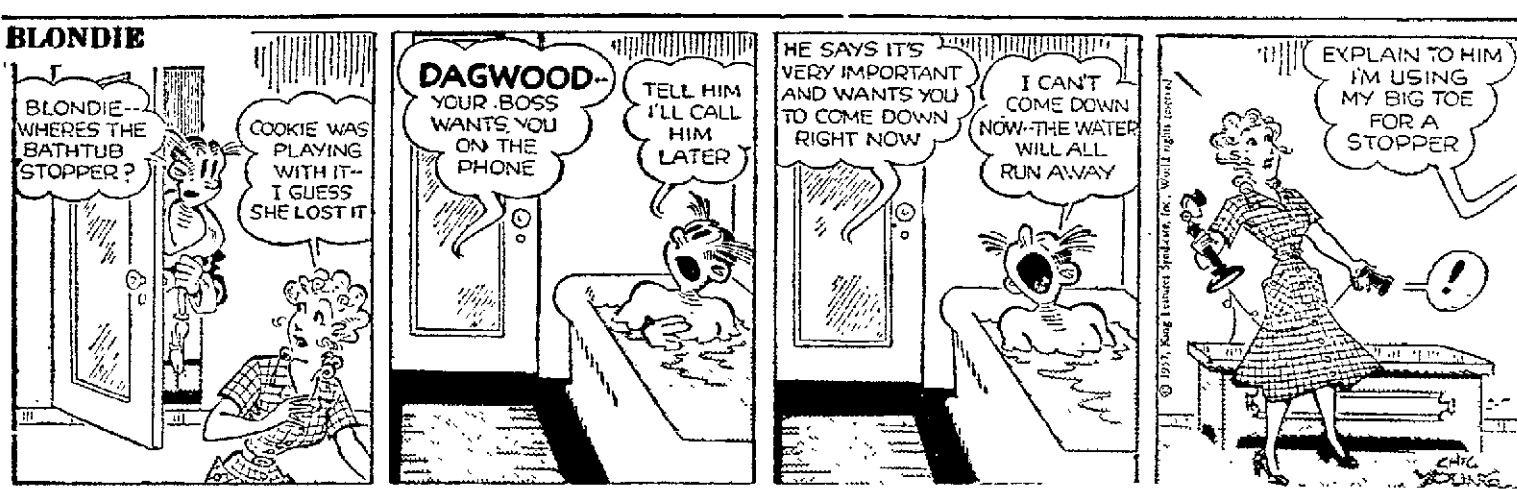

The new shipments all have arrived since the Mideast fighting ended three months ago.

Any new Soviet arms shipments to Egypt would be a violation of a United Nations Assembly ceasefire resolution, adopted Nov. 1, which called on all countries to refrain from introducing new war materials into the Middle East area.

To Build Tension
Nasser's acceptance of additional Soviet arms would be almost certain to add to Middle East tension at this time.

American authorities have been unable thus far to determine how much Soviet equipment has been delivered since the fighting ended. They agree that the new shipments thus far are not nearly as big as the original 250-million-dollar order.

The height from keel to the top of the mast of the U. S. Navy aircraft carrier Saratoga is equal to a 25-story building.

STUDY MEASURE ON PAYMENT OF RIOT DAMAGES

HARRISBURG (P)—Legislation to require payment from county treasuries for damage from mobs or riots has gained preliminary approval in the House.

The measure, sent to the House floor Tuesday by the Counties Committee, would allow lawsuits by property owners to recover damages. It stipulates that awards would not be made to owners who illegally caused the damage.

Other bills gaining committee approval would:

Reactivate the state reorganization commission until March 31, 1957.

Require all municipal authorities to submit copies of annual audits to the state auditor general and attorney general.

Give township electors final authority to decide questions of annexation if the area to be annexed and the annexing community are not in the same county and the fact finding boards appointed by the courts of the counties involved cannot agree.

Definite population as the population on Jan. 1 of the year in which money is to be paid in figuring allocation of the gasoline and liquid fuels taxes to communities.

Reduce the annual registration fee for utility trailers from $10 to $5.

Court Won't Okay Bandit Organization

READING, Pa. (P)—The three judges of Berks County Court decline to okay any association of bandits, even when it's only in fun.

They took this stand Tuesday in denying a charter to a group of enthusiasts which calls itself the Bandits Rod and Custom Assn. It is an organization of hot rod and sports car fans whose purpose is to promote highway safety.

The judges said they were in sympathy with the aim, but thought the proposed name would mislead the public and perhaps bring down censure upon the court if it approved such a title.

Blames Toothache For False Alarm

PHILADELPHIA (P)—A 56-year-old man told Magistrate Benjamin Segal that he turned in a false alarm at 4 a.m. Tuesday because of a terrible toothache.

"I was in awful misery," moaned Raeford Terry, "and I couldn't stand it any longer. I had to have help."

"I feel for you, I really do," said Segal, adding, however, that it was no small matter that the alarm had brought out four engine companies, two ladder trucks, a rescue squad, a battalion chief and a couple of police cars, setting the city back about $600.

Telling Terry that "we've got to stop this practice of turning in false alarms," Segal held him on $5,000 bail for court action. Relief for the thumping tooth then was provided.

18 AMERICANS NEAR HIGHLANDS OF ANTARCTIC

By JAMES F. TOMLINSON
ON THE TRAIL TO MARIE BYRD LAND, Antarctica (P)—Eighteen Americans aboard a bright orange tractor train are chugging across a desert of snow toward the antarctic highlands.

Skirting yawning crevices and battling bitter cold the train is averaging about two miles an hour. The round trip is expected to take a month.

The caravan moves around the clock in the 24-hour sunlight of the antarctic summer. Half the expedition members—16 Navy Seabees and two Army transportation experts—sleep while the other half drive. They shift every 12 hours.

"Living Like Kings"
"Everything is fine," Lt. (j.g.) Robert White of Glens Falls, N.Y., the train commander, told a party that flew in to visit the trail blazers. "We're living like kings. The weather has been good. In fact, some of the men are sleeping on top of the wainigians."

John Hricina of Franklin, Pa., a young Seabee mechanic who is making the Marie Byrd Land run, told the visitors he was "very excited." He added that his tour of Navy duty has run from hot to cold.

"My last station was Antigua in the balmy Caribbean," he said. Temperatures on the trail have ranged from 28 above zero to 4 below.

WASHINGTON (P)—The House Ways and Means Committee has voted to extend business taxes for another year at their present 30-billion-dollar annual level.

The tax-writing group acted only minutes after hearing Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey say it would be "inexcusable" to let the government slip back into deficit financing by not extending the present levies.

HIGH BUSINESS TAXES URGED

WASHINGTON (P)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey Wednesday said Congress should continue present high business tax rates for another year because it would be "inexcusable" to let the government slip back into deficit financing.

Humphrey said today's tax levies are "too high" and "will in the long run seriously hamper our economic growth," but he did not hold out the prospect of any immediate reduction.

Humphrey set out his views in testimony before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. He presented the administration's formal request for a year's extension of corporate income and excise tax rates.

The levies are due to drop April 1 unless Congress acts. No serious opposition to an extension was in sight.

the result of a fall Tuesday. He slipped on some ice at his home.

The former President went on to his office in Kansas City and was threatened there by Dr. Wallace Graham Jr., who also was his physician at the White House. Dr. Graham said the cut was superficial and Truman stayed on at the office for a full day's work.

SEAWOLF TYPE OF REACTOR IS NOT WORKABLE

By ELTON FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—When the Navy began moving into nuclear propulsion development six years ago it announced several types of reactors would be built and tested to decide which was best.

It started its work with submarines. The first nuclear submarine was the Nautilus. It was highly successful.

The second was the Seawolf. It was a flop. No more power plants like the one installed in that sub will be used.

What is the difference between the two types of power plants, developed under the Navy and the Atomic Energy Commission?

Why has the Nautilus been able to log more than 30,000 miles of operation? Why hasn't the Seawolf moved from its pier?

Both power systems operate by using the heat generated in a reactor by controlled nuclear fission to produce steam to drive a turbine which turns the propellers of a submarine.

Two Systems

There is this difference, however: In the Nautilus the heat energy from the atomic firebox is transferred to the steam-producing unit by passing water through the firebox and then through the steam-generating unit. The heat of the pressurized flow of water is transferred, through the walls of pipes, to the steam-generating unit. The steam so generated spins the turbine.

In the heat exchanger, radioactivity is not passed on, but remains in the shielded section of the power plant. In the Seawolf propulsion system, the heat exchange medium is liquid sodium metal. To keep the sodium flowing through the heat exchange system, a magnetic "pump" is used. A field of electricity is created by wires wrapped around the pump. The sodium is drawn through by the magnetic action of the field.

In theory, the sodium system should be more efficient. The material is a better conductor of heat than water. The pumping system is far smaller, much simpler in operation than the big pressure pumps of water.

Discovers Reaction

However, when the Seawolf's reactor was started up and run for some time the Navy said it discovered that the chemical reaction of the sodium worked into the pipes, resulting in cracks.

The Navy announced several weeks ago that it "hoped" to send the Seawolf out on sea trials in January. However, since there has been a growing belief that a new heat transfer system will have to be installed in the Seawolf.

In addition to the Nautilus and Seawolf, the Navy has seven other atomic powered submarines in its active building program. Authority has been requested for construction of six more.

All of the new submarines will use some form of water transfer, instead of sodium, in their propulsion system.

HONOR FOUNDER OF LOCAL STORE

William T. Grant, founder of the W. T. Grant Company, was selected for the first annual Jacob Marley Award for "outstanding service to mankind" at a recent testimonial luncheon in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Plaza in New York.

The award was granted by the Youth Consultation Service of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York.

New York. The presentation was made by Walter L. (Red) Barber, prominent sportscaster. Guests of honor included the Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, D.D., prelating bishop of the Episcopal Church of the United States; Right Rev. Charles F. Boynton, D.D., suffragan bishop of New York; Right Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, D.D., retired bishop of New York, and the Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., bishop of New York.

Mr. Grant was cited for his "outstanding support of the Youth Consultation Service program in behalf of young problem girls and for his long record of humanitarian efforts during his business career."

Mr. Barber, in his presentation speech, pointed out that Mr. Grant's founding principle and the one he has followed in all his business life "not how much can I get, but how much can I give lends evidence of his concern for people and the public welfare."

The Jacob Marley Award is tendered each year to two outstanding businessmen who have, during their business careers, most closely emulated the human precepts of Jacob Marley, the contrite partner in the business concern of "Scrooge and Marley," made famous in Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," who explained to selfish Scrooge, "Mankind was my business, the common welfare was my concern . . . charity, mercy, forbearance and benevolence were all my business."

Mr. Grant serves as chairman of the board of the W. T. Grant Company, which operates over 640 family stores in 42 states, including one here.

FORMER AP EDITOR DIES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Charles W. Dunkley, former Associated Press central division sports editor for 36 years, died Wednesday in a Miami hospital. He was 70.

The Mrs. Fitz handicap, a $15,000 race for 3-year-olds at Pimlico, was named after 82-year-old trainer Jim Fitzsimmons.

WISE TO TRAIN NATION'S POOL OF MANPOWER

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of the draft system said today "it would seem wise . . . and humane" to give some military training to many of the men now deferred because of parenthood or other causes.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said in testimony prepared for a House that it is "disquieting" to think Armed Services subcommittee of what the United States would have to do if it suddenly had to build up its armed forces by two million men.

He said the "two choices, both bad," would be "to recall at least one million of generally unorganized former servicemen, aging ready reservists, or take one million untrained who have not served, but unfortunately have not trained."

Should Be Trained

Hershey said that of the nation's pool of about five million men at the best age for military service, 1,300,000 are available for duty, 1,400,000 are fathers and 2,300,000 are classed as "unacceptable" for various reasons.

The pool of 1,300,000 available

men, he continued would probably "shrink all too fast" in case of need. But in any case, he said, men in this group "should be trained and used to replace the aging men among the 2 1/2 million men who have already served varying terms of service."

Hershey went on to say that many of the fathers and "unacceptables" could "perform, well, especially in a ready reserve."

"If there is a large mobilization they will be taken," he said. "It would seem wise for the nation and humane for them if they were trained."

Guard Objecting

The subcommittee is studying military reserve programs, especially one the Army wants to expand. Under this plan, men take six months active duty training, then go into a ready reserve drilling unit.

The National Guard is objecting to a new order that all its new enlistees must take six months of basic training. The Guard favors limiting this to 11 weeks for its recruits under 18 1/2, the minimum draft age.

Maj. Gen. Edgar C. Erickson told the subcommittee in prepared testimony the Army National Guard had a net loss in enlisted men of 2,050 from July 1 through Dec. 31, 1956 "compared to a net gain of 14,681 for the corresponding period" of 1955. Erickson is chief of the Defense Department's National Guard Bureau.

Immigration Now Streamlined, Old Frontier Flavor Is Gone

CHICAGO (AP) — During recent weeks the United States has spread out a red carpet for Hungarians fleeing oppression in their native country and seeking a new start in America.

Vice President Nixon toured refugee camps in Austria, giant transport planes lifted the immigrants across the Atlantic, the arriving Hungarians were interviewed to match their skills with offers of jobs coming in from across the nation.

Immigration to the United States was not always such a smooth and well-oiled operation, but it has been an adventure.

Eighty years ago a homeless Hungarian was apt to be met, if he was lucky, by a railroad agent whose colorful wares were maps of the West.

Wonders Unfolded

Unfolding them, the agent would show the American-to-be the wonders of the prairies, the Rocky Mountains and the green valleys beyond.

The first atlas of this kind contained maps of 17 states and territories and today is a rare collector's item.

A reproduction of the maps is just off the presses of Rand McNally and Co.

Andrew McNally III, great-grandson of the founder and now president of the firm, says the huge folio edition of 5,000 copies was produced after a survey disclosed only six copies of the original 1876-77 Atlas were known to be available to historians and lovers of Americana.

Called a "Pioneer Atlas of the American West," it graphically illustrates the westward movement. Proposed railroads, old wagon trails, locations of forts and gold fields are shown. The text is by Dale L. Morgan.

The original atlas contained maps

based on government sponsored land surveys. It represented a new phase in the development of the Old West. The era of early exploration was coming to an end. The scalping Indian no longer was a serious threat to pioneers and prospectors in the Black Hills.

Maps of Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico, Texas, California, Nevada, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington and Alaska showed the emigrant where to locate.

The promotional material on the folder said millions of acres of land were available at bargain prices of $2.60 to $4.00 per acre.

On the folder containing the maps and route of the Northern Pacific Railroad the emigrant could study the following:

"The best time to come to the Golden Northwest, either Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, Washington or Oregon on the line of the Northern Pacific, is in the spring. But farmers can come to this favorable region at any time, properly outfitted and make a fortune.

"The breaking season extends from about May 15 to July 15. Three horses or mules, each weighing from 1,200 pounds, upwards, or two yoke of oxen, constitutes a good breaking team for sulky or plow.

"The settler opening a new farm can always find plenty of work among his neighbors after he has done his own breaking and back-setting (plowing) and cut his hay.

"Liberal provision is made by law for schools and the towns and county settlements; schoolhouses and churches of the several denominations abound. The people who come to this country believe in these institutions."

FACES CHARGES OF "LAXITY" IN GUARDING DATA

ATLANTA (AP)—Charges of laxity in security regulations and the safeguarding of military information have been placed against Col. John Nickerson Jr., chief of field coordination services at Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala.

Third Army headquarters withheld details of the charges, in making its announcement yesterday. The announcement did say, however, that the West Point graduate of 1938 had been relieved of his duties at Huntsville and that a formal investigation is being made to determine whether a court-martial is warranted.

Nickerson was assigned to the Army ballistic agency.

Had Secret Data

On Jan. 1 the Army disclosed that a document which "apparently contained secret information" on the Army's roles and missions had been found "in the hands of unauthorized persons" and that it was investigating a possible violation of security regulations by Nickerson, "among others."

The Army said the document discussed a decision of Defense Secretary Wilson which limited Army use of missiles to those assigned specifically to anti-aircraft defense and to weapons with a range of no more than 200 miles. Wilson's order was issued in November. Pentagon sources said last month that Army people displeased by the order distributed several papers highly critical of the defense secretary's stand. The Army itself declined to comment.

NO SECRET SESSIONS

HARRISBURG (AP)—Senate committee approval was given Tuesday to a proposal that all meetings of governing bodies of public authorities be open to the public.

MURDER SUSPECT FREED ON BOND

CHICAGO (AP) — Edward Lee (Bennie) Bedwell, who signed and then retracted a confession admitting the slaying of Barbara Grimes 15 and her sister Patricia, 13, was released Tuesday from Cook County Jail on $20,000 bond.

Bond for the 21-year-old Skid Row odd jobs man was arranged by Morris Brown, Champaign, Ill., a professional bondsman, who told reporters he believes Bedwell is innocent.

Bond for Bedwell, who had been in custody since Jan. 23, was set last Saturday by Chief Justice Wilbert F. Crowley in Criminal Court on a habeas corpus writ. Another hearing on a petition for his outright release will be held Feb. 19.

Meanwhile police had no leads in the mysterious slayings of the two girls. The sisters disappeared from home Dec. 28 and an analysis of one girl's stomach contents was said by a toxicologist to indicate she died the same night.

Change Control Of 39 Airway Beacons

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Aeronautical Commission went ahead today with plans to take over operation and maintenance of 39 airway beacons now operated by the Civil Aeronautics Commission.

Atty. Gen. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. head of the state commission, said Tuesday the move will "provide operation of all safety aids possible for airmen." The beacons indicate traffic routes to pilots.

Biddle said the CAA has been disbursing use of all beacons except those at airports and intermediate landing fields.

PRODUCTION IN RUSSIA LAGS BELOW GOALS

By THOMAS P. WHITEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Kremlin's production goals for 1957 give a good indication of how greatly the sixth five-year plan overestimated the Soviet Union's ability to expand output.

In announcing the 1957 economic plan to the current session of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), economic czar Mikhail Pervukhin gave no revised goals for the five-year period ending Dec. 31, 1960.

But if production increases from now on by no more than the additional amount anticipated for 1957, the 1960 output of some basic industrial products would stack up this way as compared with the targets announced a year ago (figures in millions of metric tons):

	Original	Goal Revised
Coal	533	497
Steel	58	60
Pig Iron	53	45
Petroleum	135	137
Electricity	320	283

(Last figure in billions of kilowatt hours)

A Lot Of Steel

It can be estimated similarly that Pervukhin's revised plan involves increasing total industrial output 40 to 50 per cent by 1960. The original plan called for a 65 per cent increase over 1955.

In this set of estimates, petroleum is the only one of the five basic items for which the Kremlin's original goal remains. Soviet oil output has soared annually in recent years.

Even these revised goals would represent a very large increase in production. Fifteen million more tons of steel in the space of five years is a lot of steel.

There is also the possibility that the Soviet Union will be able to raise its rate of production increase — in the output of steel and electric power, for example — above that set for 1957. But the fact remains that the Kremlin has been compelled to lower its sights in the field of industrial development.

STOCK PRICES SINK

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was narrowly lower in moderate early trading today.

Leading issues were off fractions to a point but there was an increasing number of gainers.

After an active opening with most key stocks either lower or unchanged, steels and motors began to show some improvement.

Most of the leaders in these two divisions were either ahead a bit or about unchanged but the rest of the market was preponderantly on the downside.

Is There a Cure for Diabetes?

There is no cure
for diabetes.

Ever since diabetes was discovered about 1552 B.C., some 200 years before the birth of King Tut, charlatans have claimed they had a "cure." Beware of all such claims. In 1921, however, a dependable treatment, although not a cure, was developed for diabetes. This preparation is Insulin.

Your physician is thoroughly familiar with this product and how it is employed to control diabetes. If he finds Insulin necessary in your case, we can supply it in exactly the right strength.

PRESSURE FOR LABOR MERGERS BEING APPLIED

By NORMAN WALKER
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders Wednesday considered steps to force mergers of still-fledgling state organizations in a windup of their 10-day winter meetings.

Only 20 states have so far completed merging rival AFL and CIO state organizations.

The parent federation has set a deadline for next December for the remaining states — those most heavily industrialized — and encouraged voluntary amalgamations instead of forced mergers after the deadline.

Crackdown On 3
The powerful AFL-CIO Executive Council neared an end of a busy session which has been marked by an express determination to clean organized labor's ranks of corrupt influences.

Besides adopting strict new rules forbidding shady and dishonest union practices, the council yesterday cracked down on three unions—the Laundry, Distillery and Allied Industrial Workers.

It ordered suspension and eventual expulsion of the unions within 90 days unless they toss out certain officers and adopt decency standards.

Charged With Scandals
The three unions contend the council acted without evidence to hold them guilty of being "dominated, controlled and substantially influenced by corrupt influences."

However, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the unions knew the nature of the charges they had to conduct to avoid AFL-CIO ousters. Meany pledged that unless they fully complied with cleanup requirements, the unions would be booted out of the federation.

All three unions had been charged in a 1955 Senate investigation with welfare funds scandals.

OK PLANS FOR CHURCH CENTER

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Council of Churches Tuesday night approved plans for a half million dollar church center at Harrisburg for Protestant churches in the council.

About 200 delegates to the council's 46th general assembly approved launching of a campaign fund sometime this year to raise $569,600 for the structure. Funds would be sought from churches,

ORDERS SPECIAL INSPECTION FOR SMALL CRAFT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration has ordered a special inspection procedure for certain small airplanes—including those of the type used by President Eisenhower—to guard against engine troubles.

Planes affected are those equipped with the Lycoming engines used in the twin engine Aero Commander, which is the plane the President uses between Washington and Gettysburg, Pa., where he has a farm. The engines are also used in the Beech D50 and E50 airplanes.

The CAA said in mid-January foundations and individuals throughout the state.

Plans call for the center to be built on a bypass east of Harrisburg. It is designed to provide headquarters for the council acting as the state council of Christian education.

Delegates to the council session also adopted a resolution asking Christian churches to urge the commonwealth to provide better child care and welfare legislation and asking for more chaplains in state institutions.

It had received at least five reports of pistons in the engines burning out from undetermined causes.

Attempt Duplication
It said the Lycoming Division of Avco Manufacturing Corp. had tried to duplicate the trouble in an engine on a test stand, without success. Lycoming also had flown an airplane, specially equipped with test instruments, almost continually for 300 hours in an unsuccessful attempt to induce piston burn-outs.

Accordingly the CAA last week issued an airworthiness directive. It ordered a special check before the next flight, to be repeated every 50 hours, to make sure that the link of the engine mixture control arm on the carburetor is in "full rich" position when the cockpit control is in full rich position.

PRISONS PLAN TO USE DEPOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The General Services Administration said today the Federal Bureau of Prisons expects to take over a major portion of the former Susquehanna Ordnance Depot at Allenwood, Pa.

The bureau will use the property as a farm for the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa. It already has been making use of the facilities under special permit for four or five years.

If no other government agency is interested in the remainder of the property, consisting chiefly of agricultural and wooded land, this portion will be offered for sale to anyone interested under a bidding system. It totals about 3,000 acres.

Letter Of Intent

The GSA said the Bureau of Prisons had filed a letter of intent to take the rest of the 7,866 acres together with most of the 235 buildings and utilities for the prison farm.

A formal application is expected from the bureau as soon as it completes a survey of the property desired. If the application is approved, the property will be transferred to the bureau without fee.

NOTES IMMUNITY FROM AUTHORITY

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission said Tuesday the Red Hill Borough Water Commission in Montgomery County is not subject to state jurisdiction because it was not set up as a public utility.

The PUC dismissed a complaint by Pennsburg Water Co. contending Red Hill is furnishing service beyond its corporate limits and therefore requires a permit.

The company operates in Pennsburg, adjoining Red Hill.

The commission said it found no evidence that the borough provides service beyond its limits.

The PUC said it had no authority over the Red Hill operation because its jurisdiction covers only that section of a municipal water system outside official boundaries.

Important Medical Report on Arthritis and Rheumatism Pain SCIENCE FINDS NEW WAY TO BRING WARM "HEALING BLOOD" TO STIFF ACHING JOINTS Pain fades out as new MERICIN therapy helps healing blood flow into pain areas

A brilliant medical discovery now available at leading drug stores means dramatic reduction in the pain of arthritis and rheumatism for thousands.

Painful symptoms of arthritis, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago are now being effectively relieved by the remarkable action of a new combination of pain relieving medications.

This scientific compound works its relief by attacking what leading medical experts believe is the real cause of the baffling pain of arthritis and rheumatism... the "cut off" of free circulating healing blood from the areas of pain.

FIGHTS A BASIC CAUSE OF PAIN

When inflammation or spasm strikes your joints or muscles your nervous system warns the brain. The brain increases the flow of healing blood to the pain areas... but usually the spasm and swelling block its free flow. This blockage causes a vicious cycle of increased spasm and swelling, more severe pain... increased blockage of blood.

The new medication, called Mericin, "opens the door to healing blood" in the pain areas around your muscles and joints. As pain fades away, spasm and inflammation are reduced. Warm healing blood flows through the pain area more freely... soothes the pain.

MUSCLES LOOSEN—STIFF JOINTS SWING MORE FREELY!

Stiff joints swing more freely. Muscles loosen. In case after case in clinical tests when Mericin therapy was used, pain, swelling, redness and stiffness were reduced... and without any of the harmful effects so frequently noticed with the continuous use of cortisone, aspirin and other analgesics.

Mericin has now been made available to the public. It is offered with a remarkable unconditional guarantee of effectiveness. It must help increase the flow of healing blood through painful, stiff joints and muscles... must bring you relief you never had before, or the laboratories which compound this unusual pain reliever will refund your money in full.

Try Mericin today. Its relief is wonderful. It is available at all... drug stores.

SEAWOLF TYPE OF REACTOR IS NOT WORKABLE

By ELTON FAX
WASHINGTON (AP)—When the Navy began moving into nuclear propulsion development six years ago it announced several types of reactors would be built and tested to decide which were best.
It started its work with submarines. The first nuclear submarine was the Nautilus. It was highly successful.
The second was the Seawolf. It was a flop. No more power plants like the one installed in that sub will be used.
What is the difference between the two types of power plants, developed under the Navy and the Atomic Energy Commission?
Why has the Nautilus been able to log more than 30,000 miles of operation? Why hasn't the Seawolf moved from its pier?
Both power systems operate by using the heat generated in a reactor by controlled nuclear fission to produce steam to drive a turbine which turns the propellers of a submarine.
Two Systems
There is this difference, however: In the Nautilus the heat energy from the atomic firebox is transferred to the steam-producing unit by passing water through the firebox and then through the steam-generating unit. The heat of the pressurized flow of water is transferred, through the walls of pipes, to the steam-generating unit. The steam so generated spins the turbine.

In the heat exchanger, radioactivity is not passed on, but remains in the shielded section of the power plant.
In the Seawolf propulsion system, the heat exchange medium is liquid sodium metal. To keep the sodium flowing through the heat exchange system, a magnetic "pump" is used. A field of electricity is created by wires wrapped around the pump. The sodium is drawn through by the magnetic action of the field.
In theory, the sodium system should be more efficient. The material is a better conductor of heat than water. The pumping system is far smaller, much simpler in operation than the big pressure pumps for water.
Discovers Reaction
However, when the Seawolf's reactor was started up and run for some time the Navy says it discovered that the chemical reaction of the sodium worked into the pipes, resulting in cracks.
The Navy announced several weeks ago that it "hoped" to send the Seawolf out on sea trials in January. However, since there has been a growing belief that a new heat transfer system will have to be installed in the Seawolf.
In addition to the Nautilus and Seawolf, the Navy has seven other atomic powered submarines in its active building program. Authority has been requested for construction of six more.
All of the new submarines will use some form of water transfer, instead of sodium, in their propulsion system.

HONOR FOUNDER OF LOCAL STORE

William T. Grant, founder of the W. T. Grant Company, was selected for the first annual Jacob Marley Award for "outstanding service to mankind" at a recent testimonial luncheon in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Plaza in New York.
The award was granted by the Youth Consultation Service of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York.
Mr. Grant was cited for his "outstanding support of the Youth Consultation Service program in behalf of young problem girls and for his long record of humanitarian efforts during his business career."
Mr. Barber, in his presentation speech, pointed out that Mr. Grant's founding principle and the one he has followed in all his business life "not how much can I get, but how much can I give lends evidence of his concern for people and the public welfare."
The Jacob Marley Award is tendered each year to two outstanding businessmen who have, during their business careers, most closely emulated the human precepts of Jacob Marley, the contrite partner in the business concern of "Scrooge and Marley," made famous in Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," who explained to selfish Scrooge, "Mankind was my business, the common welfare was my concern . . . charity, mercy, forbearance and benevolence were all my business."
Mr. Grant serves as chairman of the board of the W. T. Grant Company, which operates over 650 family stores in 42 states, including one here.

WISE TO TRAIN NATION'S POOL OF MANPOWER

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of the draft system said today "it would seem wise . . . and humane" to give some military training to many of the men now deferred because of parenthood or other causes.
Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said in testimony prepared for a House that it is "disquieting" to think Armed Services subcommittee of what the United States would have to do if it suddenly had to build up its armed forces by two million men.
He said the "two choices, both bad," would be, "to recall at least one million of generally unorganized former servicemen, aging reservists, or take one million untrained who have not served, but unfortunately have not trained."
Should Be Trained
Hershey said that of the nation's pool of about five million men at the best age for military service, 1,300,000 are available for duty, 1,400,000 are fathers and 2,300,000 are classified as "unacceptable" for various reasons.
The pool of 1,300,000 available

men, he continued would probably "shrink all too fast" in case of need. But in any case, he said, men in this group "should be trained and used to replace the aging men among the 2 1/2 million men who have already served varying terms of service."
Hershey went on to say that many of the fathers and "unacceptables" could "perform well, especially in a ready reserve."
"If there is a large mobilization they will be taken," he said. "It would seem wise for the nation and humane for them if they were trained."
Guard Objecting
The subcommittee is studying military reserve programs, especially one the Army wants to expand. Under this plan, men take six months active duty training, then go into a ready reserve drilling unit.
The National Guard is objecting to a new order that all new enlistees must take six months of basic training. The Guard favors limiting this to 11 weeks for its recruits under 18 1/2, the minimum draft age.
Maj. Gen. Edgar C. Erickson told the subcommittee in prepared testimony the Army National Guard had a net loss in enlisted men of 2,050 from July 1 through Dec. 31, 1956 "compared to a net gain of 14,681 for the corresponding period" of 1955. Erickson is chief of the Defense Department's National Guard Bureau.

News Briefs
BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government has offered around 175 million dollars to help maintain the armed forces of six nations stationed in West Germany.
For the year ending next May, West Germany is paying about 350 million dollars to these powers.
MOSCOW (AP)—Dr. Hans Schulzen, West German blood specialist called here to treat a high-ranking patient, reported he had been advised by the Soviet Ministry of Health that he would not be called in for another examination or consultation and was free to leave Moscow.
This could mean either that the patient's condition had improved substantially or that he was not considered beyond hope.
Dr. Schulzen saw the patient but once, on last Sunday.
MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—The first teacher strike in the state's history ended Wednesday as Manchester public school teachers returned to their classrooms in the wake of a court decision that their two-day walkout was illegal.
The Superior Court ruling that teachers do not have the right to strike against the city will be appealed to the state Supreme Court and a hearing will be held later this month.

There is this difference, however: In the Nautilus the heat energy from the atomic firebox is transferred to the steam-producing unit by passing water through the firebox and then through the steam-generating unit. The heat of the pressurized flow of water is transferred, through the walls of pipes, to the steam-generating unit. The steam so generated spins the turbine.

30 Per Cent Of U.S. Copper Is Mined From Pit In Bingham

BINGHAM, Utah (P)—"Man," said the tourist. "Dig that crazy golf divot."

And crazy it was, man, for the tourist stood on the lip of the world's largest open pit copper mine, one and three-quarters miles across and 2,210 feet deep.

For the statistically minded: The mine produces more than 13 billion pounds of copper a year—30 per cent of the nation's yearly yield of newly mined copper and 10 per cent of the world's annual supply.

The mine has produced in 51 years, enough copper to encircle the earth at the equator with a solid band one inch thick and more than two feet wide, or about 13 billion pounds.

The pit is 90 big engineers keep track of its changing face with aerial photographs.

There are 175 miles of railroad track on the various bench levels in the mine. The pit, shaped like a bowl or cup, looks similar to a giant football stadium.

No Crowding
If the bench levels were covered with bleachers, all the people in Utah and Texas could be seated comfortably. It would take all the people in Nevada to sell the hot-dogs, peanuts and popcorn. The spectators could watch as many as 10 separate football games going on at the bottom of the pit.

The pit is owned by the Kennecott Copper Corp. and is operated by the company's Utah Copper Division. Operations continue around the clock. About 3,220 men are employed at the mine.

Its development is a study in perseverance, chiefly by Daniel C. Jackling, who worked his way up from a dollar-a-day hard rock miner to a multimillionaire.

The average grade of ore now being mined is only 32 per cent copper. Ore containing as little as 4 per cent copper is processed, with material below that grade going to the dump heaps.

Sixty years ago such poor grade ore was considered useless. But Jackling developed a process for mining the low grade ore—a process which now accounts for more than 60 per cent of the world's copper production.

Noisy Work
The mining process begins by blasting. More than 6,000,000 pounds of dynamite are used in the pit each year.

Through a series of careful tests, engineers decide if the blasted material has enough copper to be worth processing.

Electric shovels load the material into side-dump railroad cars. The shovels, weighing from 200 to 250 tons, load a 100-ton ore car in about seven minutes with dippers taking 10 to 14 tons of material at a time.

Today's Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE
The Associated Press

This is the story of an American girl who fell in love with a French glove.

"She is the Comtesse de Morelos, the former Brenda Helser of San Francisco and Philadelphia, champion American swimmer from 1938 to 1950. She held the American record for 100 meters free-style swimming for 11 years, and was a national champion at 11."

The slender, dark-eyed Brenda met the Comte de Morelos while touring Europe after the 1948 Olympic Games in London, married him in 1949, and has been living in France ever since.

Huguenot Ancestry
"I guess it's natural that I should love everything French," says Brenda. "My family was thrown out of France with the Huguenots in 1685, and settled in New York. My great-grandfather was James Herring, a sale manufacturer, who gave Longacre Square to New York City. But I think we've all retained a pride in our French heritage."

"Now I can't think of anything more exciting than my new job, which is to travel around the United States telling people about French gloves."

The Comtesse de Morelos was appointed by the French glove industry recently as a sort of traveling ambassador to point out the virtues of French gloves to Americans.

Glove Talk
"Since this is one of my pet subjects, I have no trouble talking about French gloves," says Brenda. "I've watched the gloves being made every step of the way, and I know why they're so good. In the first place the moist climate of France makes better skins. Then the French have developed the skill of glove-making for generations. They never hurry the process and each worker takes as much pride in his handiwork as he would in a piece of great art."

Brenda has been appearing at fashion shows and in stores around the country, showing the newest fashions in French gloves, explaining how they are made and—of course—wearing them herself.

When she goes back to Paris she is going to take along a trunk full of the dresses worn by her American grandmother, and present them to the Louvre.

SKATING CHAMP IN ICE CAPEDES

HERSHEY, Pa. — Two former World's and Olympic free skating champions, Ronnie Robertson and his team mate, Cathie Machado, will be seen in Ice Capades of 1957, coming to Hershey Sports Arena, February 14 through 27.

Ronnie and Cathie are two of the six skaters selected the nation over for the Olympics and the world championship to represent the United States at Cortina, Italy, and Garmisch, Germany.

Both are holders of the Richards Trophy, which is emblematic of the "most artistic performance in free skating" at the U.S. National Championships. They are also gold medalists, the highest honor which can be achieved in figure skating.

In the 1956 Winter Olympics at Cortina, Robertson was beaten by only a slim margin by a team mate, Hayes Alan Jenkins. Jenkins excelled in the school figures, giving him enough of an edge to overcome Ronnie's spectacular free skating. As it was, Jenkins won by only 852.2 points to 840.1. Later, Ronnie again placed second to

RONNIE ROBERTSON

Jenkins in the world competition. Robertson appears in three numbers, skating his Olympic routine in one; appearing with Bobby Specht and Cathie in "Rhapsody in Blue," and making a third appearance in the show's finale, "Ria Marenga."

Washington News Letter

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON (P)—Come Lent, many Washington socialites will be seeking something more than spiritual contemplation and a dish of fish. They'll welcome a chance to store away their boiled shirts and grab a little shut-eye.

The VIPs barely had time to recover from the exhausting round of inaugural festivities before they were dusting off their top hats and homburgs and tugging on their long white gloves to take in the late-announced official White House shindigs.

Announcement of the President and First Lady's schedule of six functions, extending into March, caught local society somewhat by surprise. The festivities were skipped

NEW ENVOY—Ellsworth Bunker, a Democrat and retiring president of American Red Cross, has been named by President Eisenhower to be the U. S. Ambassador to India.

The Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey was the biggest—and the last—circus to travel by rail, but it wasn't the first. P. T. Barnum's early managing director, William C. Coup, is credited with originating circus flatcars and devices to facilitate transportation by rail, but—the pioneer in the field was Dr. Gilbert A. Spaulding, a New Albany, Ind., druggist and part owner of the Spaulding & Rogers Show. In 1861 he made circus history when he rented rail-way cars to move the show. Ten years later another showman, L. B. Lantz, put his New York Circus on rails. His ads in 1867 proclaimed "the second triumph of rail." Other shows followed the lead, with the Barnum circus hitting the tracks in 1872 and Ringling Brothers in 1890. Barnum was the first to buy his own rolling stock.

Persons witnessing a boxcar barreling along by itself might have thought the Canadian National Railway had developed some new means of motivation. Not so. Freight car No. 405576 was standing empty on a siding at Ormstown, south of Montreal, when winds of hurricane force struck it and set it rolling. The twenty-ton car moved through a switch and onto the main line. Under the lash of the wind the car sped through the station at Delson and on to Brossard, where alerted sectionmen switched it to a team track and halted its flight.

They aren't exactly like Chessie, but there are cats on the Swiss Federal Railway payroll. Their pay is free milk regularly and a more-than-occasional diet of mice. Their job is to rid the railroad's Simphon Tunnel of mice which, ironically, were put in the tunnel by the railroad. It happened this way: Shortly after opening the twelve-mile tunnel, believed to be the longest in the world, the railroad had a problem—how to keep the tunnel clean. Passengers continually were throwing food and other refuse out the windows as trains moved through the tunnel. So three pairs of mice were let loose to serve as scavengers in the tunnel. Everything worked fine—until the mice began multiplying faster than the garbage. Before long nearby residents were complaining. The new solution: cats. Twelve of them were stationed, six at each end of the tunnel, to nab the foraging mice.

last year because the President was recovering from his heart attack and many thought they also would be bypassed this year with the inaugural functions demanding so much of his energy and time.

Shorter Season
But the season is "slightly curtailed." In former years traditional white-tie dinners and receptions numbered 11, and usually the season was leisurely paced, from early November until shortly before Lent. The 1954-55 official season started November 16 and wound up January 21.

The 1957 White House season includes the diplomatic reception held January 24, the dinner for the Chief Justice and Supreme Court January 29 and the February 4 dinner honoring the Vice President and Cabinet members. There's a reception February 7, a dinner honoring the Speaker of the House, February 28, and another reception set for March 5. (Ash Wednesday, first day of Lent, is March 6.) These affairs will keep the Chief Executive up well past his 9 o'clock bedtime. State dinners begin at 8 o'clock, receptions at 9 p.m.

Dinners, Receptions
Custom prescribes that each year the chief executive and his official hostess shall give a series of state dinners and receptions. The custom was broken in 1940, when President

Washington Whispers

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON (P)—One of the busiest women in town is the peppy, blue-eyed wife of Rep. Lawrence Smith (R-Wis.).

Besides working nearly full-time in her husband's Capitol Hill office, Betty Smith gets around to most of the parties to which she and her husband are invited. She keeps a smoothly-running household. She's an excellent cook. But that is only part of the story of the Mrs. Smith who came to Washington.

Her interests extend beyond home and office, into politics and club work. She was president of the Congressional Club from 1953 to 1954 and supervised two of its nationwide cookbooks. She's a former national president of the American Legion Auxiliary and is now a member of its national finance committee.

Currently she's up to her ears arranging for the dinner which will highlight the Feb. 7 Woman's Forum on National Security. The meeting will bring to Washington some 700 delegates representing 15 patriotic organizations.

10 Years Work
The Smiths came to the capital 17 years ago, and Mrs. Smith has been working in her husband's office for the past 10 years. Mostly she handles her husband's personal matters and some veterans' cases. She says she enjoys the work, and constituents like to see a familiar face when they come to town.

Cooking is second nature to the congressman's wife. Dinner guests in Washington are treated to dishes made from recipes her own family used for more than a century. Guests back in Racine are treated to delicacies gleaned from all parts of the world. Because of her husband's membership on the House Foreign Affairs committee, the Smiths are invited to numerous diplomatic parties where the most exotic foods are served. Mrs. Smith has had the unusual opportunity to sample cooking at literally thousands of dinners, teas, and committee meetings.

Menu Planning
Not only does she whip up tempting meals in her own kitchen, she often is called on to plan menus for organizations to which she belongs. For her own guests, a favorite buffet menu is likely to begin with broiled grapefruit topped with brown sugar, a ham and veal loaf served with mustard sauce, and an almond and green bean casserole. There's usually jellied apricot salad and Jerusalem pudding made with chopped figs, dates, rice and whipped cream.

WASHINGTON (P)—When President Eisenhower and his Republican administration took over from the Democrats in 1953, there were predictions of a return to the social formalities of past GOP regimes.

For the most part, those predictions have come true. Those who knew the Republican social pattern were saying that evening white-tie invitations would mean white tie, not tuxedo, and that guests wouldn't be showing up at late-day receptions in business suits and street dresses either. They would go home and change into striped pants and party frocks as they did in the days before the Democrats introduced informality.

Except perhaps for the striped pants, this fashion forecast has come to pass.

Ball Gowns
Ladies attending evening functions at the White House are expected to wear floor-length ball gowns and long white gloves. Most of them do, though over the past four years a number chose to wear cocktail-length dresses.

These gowns will be seeing additional wear throughout the coming months. Some official wives have announced they purchased their one and only new evening gown of the season, for the inaugural and that's that. Since some of them have to attend all six of the season's late-announced White House functions, they expect to draw upon their wardrobes of past seasons for changes.

Long before the inauguration local merchants were sold out of white gloves. Protocol experts say white gloves are the most proper. Black gloves if they run to 22 buttons are acceptable. Colored gloves never!

Colored Gloves
This last the First Lady does not always adhere to. She is fond of gloves that match her shoes, evening bag or the trimming on her gown. Second Lady Pat Nixon is inclined the same way. At one white-tie shindig earlier this season she wore lime-colored gloves to match the trimming on her white lace gown, which incidentally was ballerina-length!

and Mrs. Roosevelt bypassed the annual diplomatic reception, chiefly because most diplomats were not speaking to each other. Other 1940 receptions were held as usual. Then came World War II, the post-war renovation of the White House, then the Korean War. The Trumans resumed the schedule in 1947-48, but the pickings were lean around the buffet table because of food conservation.

Custom prescribes that each year the chief executive and his official hostess shall give a series of state dinners and receptions. The custom was broken in 1940, when President

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Wall Materials Important In Room Finishing

By ANDREW C. LANG
The Associated Press

Few persons give enough attention to the proper selection of wall materials when it comes time to build a finished room in the attic or basement, add an extra room to the house or put up new walls in an old room.

Most of the time the choice of a particular material is made because it looked good in someone else's house . . . or in a showroom . . . or because a neighbor or a relative used it and recommended it.

These reasons are all right in their way—and should have some bearing on your decision—but the ultimate selection should be based on your own needs. The room you are finishing may be used for an entirely different purpose than the one you admired, which might make the wall material in the already-completed room highly impractical for you.

Many On Market
There are many dry wall materials readily available to the retail purchaser these days. Each has its own characteristics and it's the wise buyer who knows why he is spending his money for a particular type of product.

Gypsum board, the least expensive of these materials, is a form of plaster covered on both sides with strong paper. It is sometimes erroneously referred to as plaster board, a term which accurately describes another kind of material used by professional plasterers. Besides being inexpensive, gypsum board has the greatly desirable feature of being fire resistant. Although durable under normal usage, it can be dented if a hard object is pushed against it. Most kinds of gypsum board must be painted or papered and the seams filled with tape and cement. Gypsum board costing a bit more can be obtained with special finished surfaces which require neither paper nor paint. Asbestos cement board is a first cousin of gypsum board, but is priced about twice as high, which is still less than many other wall materials. This is made of asbestos fibers and portland cement pressed into rigid panels. It is fireproof and water resistant, making it excellent for laundry

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 85:10—"Steadfast love and faithfulness will meet; Righteousness and peace will kiss each other." (RSV)

Here is the irresistible and inevitable rendezvous: "steadfast love and faithfulness will meet." They belong together and their trust will be kept, come weal or woe.

How profoundly true is the poetry of the psalmist as he next exclaims: "Righteousness and peace will kiss each other." No wonder; they are in love with each other. They will be together, they must be together. And what an attractive pair they make for mankind! Let's help them stay together.

It has been said: "In time of peace prepare for war and in times of war prepare for peace."

Let us say: "In time of peace, prepare for more peace." War may be necessary again, but with the destructive potential available today let us pray: God forbid.

"Peace and righteousness will kiss each other." These two lovers can't be separated. Call them together in your own heart. Righteousness is only what is right and that which is right is Peace. The Rev. Henry Edward Russell, Trinity Presbyterian Church, Montgomery, Alabama

Suggests Gas Tanks Should Not Be Filled

SANTA ANA, Calif. (P)—Battalion Chief Wayne Gross of the Santa Ana Fire Department, says it may not be the best idea to "fill 'er up" when you pull into a service station.

He said calls to the fire department to check on leaking gasoline tanks have prompted a warning that a tank filled to the brim with cool gasoline may not be big enough for the expanding fuel when the temperature climbs at mid-day. In addition, he said, the car may be parked with the tank opening on the down-slanted side, and a leak may result.

Grocery Co. Case Off The Docket

PETOSKEY, Mich. (P)—The case of the Petoskey Grocery Co. against the Adams Grocery Co. finally has disappeared from the Emmet County Circuit Court docket. It had appeared regularly four times a year for 19 years.

All principals are dead. The firms have been dissolved. The original judge also died.

Judge Edward H. Fenlon finally threw it out; but observed sadly that "the docket won't seem the same now."

rooms, bathrooms and furnace enclosures.

Second Family
Next we come to fiber or insulating board. It looks something like gypsum board, but has no plaster in it. Its base is composed of wood fiber, sugar cane residue or some other fibrous vegetable material. It is not fireproof, but it is more fire resistant than wood and it has good insulating qualities. Reasonable in cost, it once was made only in white, but now is available in many decorator colors and designs. Its disadvantages: it will not stand up for a long period of time where there is high humidity, such as in a damp basement—and it is susceptible to dents and bruises. For those who like wood, there is a choice of plywood or solid wood paneling. Plywood, with a price range from the inexpensive to the very expensive, is a tough material made of laminated sheets of real wood. The most common variety is fir plywood, which has a wild grain which must be tamed with the use of a special sealer. Plywood can be obtained in many other wood facings—pine, birch, maple, walnut, oak and so on. The better the facing, the more the plywood costs. And if you don't want to bother finishing the plywood, and are willing to pay extra, you can get pre-finished panels. Some types come with grooves and special metal clips that eliminate nailing.

There are many other dry wall materials on the market . . . with plastic facings, striations or irregular grooves, flake veneers and others. In fact, it's a difficult matter to keep up with the many different varieties. That's why it's so important to look around before you make your choice.

Wide Price Range
Solid wood paneling also has a wide price range. Look over what is on hand at your local dealer, as you sometimes can get a good buy on a type of wood which happens to be available in large quantities at the moment. To some persons, nothing has the warmth and homey appearance of solid wood paneling.

Hardboard is made of wood fibers bonded in hydraulic presses. It has a smooth surface without grain, but is of great strength. The tempered variety, only a couple of cents more than the standard, has an exceptionally hard surface which resists moisture and will stand up under almost any kind of pounding. While it can be nailed or screwed or glued to another surface, it does not serve as a nail or screw base itself. Slightly more expensive types of hardboards come with a leather finish, simulated tile or with perforations to serve as a utility panel or wall.

There are many other dry wall materials on the market . . . with plastic facings, striations or irregular grooves, flake veneers and others. In fact, it's a difficult matter to keep up with the many different varieties. That's why it's so important to look around before you make your choice.

STUDY MEASURE ON PAYMENT OF RIOT DAMAGES

HARRISBURG (AP)—Legislation to require payment from county treasuries for damage from mobs or riots has gained preliminary approval in the House.

The measure, sent to the House floor Tuesday by the Counties Committee, would allow lawsuits by property owners to recover damages. It stipulates that awards would not be made to owners who illegally caused the damage.

Other bills gaining committee approval would:

Reauthorize the state reorganization commission until March 31, 1957.

Require all municipal authorities to submit copies of annual audits to the state auditor general and attorney general.

Give township electors final authority to decide questions of annexation if the area to be annexed and the annexing community are not in the same county and the fact finding boards appointed by the courts of the counties involved cannot agree.

Reduce the annual registration fee for utility trailers from $10 to $5.

18 AMERICANS NEAR HIGHLANDS OF ANTARCTIC

By JAMES F. TOMLINSON
ON THE TRAIL TO MARIE BYRD LAND, Antarctica (AP)—Eighteen Americans aboard a bright orange tractor train are chugging across a desert of snow toward the antarctic highlands.

Skirting yawning crevices and battling bitter cold the train is averaging about two miles an hour. The round trip is expected to take a month.

The caravan moves around the clock in the 24-hour sunlight of the antarctic summer. Half the expedition members—16 Navy Seabees and two Army transportation experts—sleep while the other half drive. They shift every 12 hours.

"Living Like Kings" "Everything is fine," Lt. (j.g.) Robert White of Glens Falls, N.Y., the train commander, told a party that drew in to visit the trail blazers. "We're living like kings. The weather has been good. In fact, some of the men are sleeping on top of the wampigans."

John Hirsline of Franklin, Pa., a young Seabee mechanic who is making the Marie Byrd Land run, told the visitors he was "very excited." He added that his tour of Navy duty has run from hot to cold.

"My last station was Antigua in the balmey Caribbean," he said. Temperatures on the trail have ranged from 28 above zero to 4 below.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee has voted to extend business taxes for another year at their present 30-billion-dollar annual level.

The tax-writing group acted only minutes after hearing Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey say it would be "inexcusable" to let the government slip back into deficit financing by not extending the present levies.

HIGH BUSINESS TAXES URGED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey Wednesday said Congress should continue present high business tax rates for another year because it would be "inexcusable" to let the government slip back into deficit financing.

Humphrey said today's tax levies are "too high" and "will in the long run seriously hamper our economic growth," but he did not hold out the prospect of any immediate reduction.

Humphrey set out his views in testimony before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. He presented the administration's formal request for a year's extension of corporate income and excise tax rates.

The levies are due to drop April 1 unless Congress acts. No seri-

Court Won't Okay Bandit Organization

READING, Pa. (AP)—The three judges of Berks County Court decline to okay any association of bandits, even when it's only in fun.

They took this stand Tuesday in denying a charter to a group of enthusiasts which calls itself the Bandits Rod and Custom Assn. It is an organization of hot rod and sports car fans whose purpose is to promote highway safety.

The judges said they were in sympathy with the aim, but thought the proposed name would mislead the public and perhaps bring down censure upon the court if it approved such a title.

Blames Toothache For False Alarm

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A 56-year-old man told Magistrate Benjamin Segal that he turned in a false alarm at 4 a.m. Tuesday because of a terrible toothache.

"I was in awful misery," moaned Raeford Terry. "and I couldn't stand it any longer. I had to have help."

"I feel for you, I really do," said Segal, adding, however, that it was no small matter that the alarm had brought out four engine companies, two ladder trucks, a rescue squad, a battalion chief and a couple of police cars, setting the city back about $600.

Telling Terry that "we've got to stop this practice of turning in false alarms," Segal held him on $5,000 bail for court action. Relief for the thumping tooth then was provided.

PRESS EFFORTS TO INVESTIGATE LABOR LEADER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate labor investigators said Wednesday they intend to get testimony from President Dave Beck of the teamsters union despite his unannounced trip out of the country.

Beck showed up Tuesday in Nassau, the Bahamas, with airline reservations to continue on to Europe. But he said he might not go to Europe after all. He returned only last month from another European tour.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of a special Senate committee investigating alleged racketeering in labor unions and industry, told a reporter he believes Beck could give testimony "very pertinent" to this inquiry and added:

"Before these investigations are through Mr. Beck will appear before us—unless he stays out of the jurisdiction of the United States."

Plan Public Hearings
The committee announced it plans to start big-scale public hearings within two weeks in its search for evidence of underworld influence in some unions, corrupt deals between some labor union officials and employers, and misuse of labor union funds by officials.

The committee Tuesday hired Robert F. Kennedy as its counsel. He is on leave of absence from a similar post on the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee, which McClellan also heads.

As counsel to the permanent subcommittee, Kennedy had testified at a public hearing he had evidence that teamsters union funds were used to pay "personal bills" for Beck and some other union officials.

Beck told reporters who telephoned him from Miami Beach that he was not in Nassau with any purpose of avoiding a subpoena, but was there "getting a rest with my wife."

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pennsylvania State Assn. of Township Supervisors today adopted a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to permit an increase in the borrowing power of second-class townships.

At present the borrowing capacity of these townships is limited to seven per cent of assessed valuation.

Expectant Father Is Little Help To Stork

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Frank Churnetski was driving his wife to a hospital Tuesday when she turned to him in dismay and said: "Honey, we're never going to make it."

Churnetski parked in front of a fire station and dashed inside for help.

In his excitement, he failed to set the emergency brake tight enough. The car slid backward and crashed into three poles.

Firemen, who found Mrs. Churnetski only slightly shaken by the accident, then fell to and helped her deliver a baby girl.

Attendants at Mercy Hospital said today that mother and daughter are doing fine.

GOP CHAIRMEN PREPARING FOR 1958 CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON (AP)—National Chairman H. Meade Alcorn Jr. appeared ready today to give 1958 campaign help to GOP Senate and House members regardless of their enthusiasm—or lack of it—for "modern Republicanism."

Chairman Schoepel (Kan.) of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee said in an interview he had had a "very satisfactory" conference with Alcorn about plans for next year's campaign.

"We are accepting... the chairman's assurances that he will cooperate fully with us in our efforts to re-elect Republicans and regain control of the Senate," Schoepel said. "We expect the national committee's performance to be entirely satisfactory in that respect."

20 Seats At Stake
Twenty Republican Senate seats are at stake next year. About half are occupied by GOP members who have had differences of political opinion with President Eisenhower. They apparently don't subscribe fully to Eisenhower's campaign to convert his party to "modern Republicanism."

Alcorn promised the Senate Republican Policy Committee in a closed meeting yesterday he will "work closely" with GOP Senate and House members next year.

Brown's 157-pound wrestler, a sophomore from Lock Haven, Pa., has an appropriate name—Louis Winner. As a freshman last year he won all eight bouts.

Stamp News

By SYD DRONISH
Did you know
The present 3-cent rate for letters is the same as it was in 1851?

In the early days of this nation the cost for mailing a one sheet letter was as high as 25 cents!

In 1813, to encourage vaccination, Congress provided (at that time only) for the free mailing of vaccines!

In 1897 Congress provided that all letters and packages to George Washington could be mailed free to him for the remainder of his life!

These and hundreds of other interesting facts are contained in a new 138-page booklet issued by the Post Office Department. The publication "United States Domestic Postage Rates 1789-1956" is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C. at 45 cents a copy.

Japanese Issue
A neatly designed 4-color photograph stamp depicting the "Conquest of Manas" has been issued by Japan. The 10 yen adhesive honors the scaling of this giant peak in the Himalayas by a Japanese expedition.

Also issued by Japan was a two stamp set for their 11th National Athletic Meeting. The 5 yen magenta shows a broad jumper and the 5 yen green pictures a girls' basketball game.

Austria has issued a new "Postage Stamp Day," reports Edwin Mueller. The 1 schilling plus 25 groschen vermilion stamp shows an ornamental shield with post-horn on which a letter is placed. The additional value goes to the Austrian philatelic societies.

Turkey has issued a new 60 k yellow and violet stamp to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Medical Center in Kayseri. The design shows two buildings — one for the teaching of medical science and the other a clinic created in 1206.

Iranian Set
Two stamps have been issued by Iran to honor United Nations Day, reports the New York Stamp Co. The 1 rial green depicts the U.N. emblem and people of different nationalities. The 2.50 rial blue shows balanced scales and the U.N. emblem.

Also issued was a 1 rial stamp to honor the arrival in Teheran of the President of Pakistan.

Finland has issued four new stamps for the Finnish Red Cross. This same set also commemorates the 50th anniversary of the last meeting of the former Finnish Diet. Depicted on the stamps are the portraits of the last speakers of the Diet.

A 12 centavos blue airmail stamp has been issued by Cuba to honor the Inter-American Press Society. At the same time four stamps were issued marking that country's annual tuberculosis fund drive. Each stamp in this set depicted a child.

Stamp notes . . . eight stamps have been issued by Yugoslavia to hail the Olympic Games in Australia . . . Another Olympic set has been issued by Korea. The two adhesives of identical design show a hand holding the Olympic torch on which is superimposed the five ring Olympic symbol . . . The U.N. Postal Administration announced that on the first day of the U.N. Day Stamp (Oct. 24) there were 303,560 covers cancelled.

SPACE OUTLOOK FOR INAUGURAL HOOPLA BRIGHT

WASHINGTON (AP) — There have been times when the grass-rootsers have come to the capital for the inauguration of the man they elected President and found nary a place to rest their weary bones after the hoopla.

As late as 1952 a New Jersey delegation of about 100 had to sleep in Pullman cars. A. B. Hermann, chairman of the 1951 Inaugural Housing Committee, says the outlook is brighter for visitors attending the Jan. 19-21 ceremonies. Washington Hotel Assn. members already have blocked out 2,500 housing units, expected to take care of at least 4,000 persons, and rooming houses and motels many of which have mushroomed in the area over the past couple of years will have more than 2,500 available, he says.

Hotels are asking those requesting rooms during inauguration weekend to guarantee a four-day stay. Hermann says the housing committee is sending out a questionnaire asking for detailed information on type of room desired, arrival and departure dates, even the names of all occupants of the rooms to be reserved.

By now, those who haven't applied for inaugural parade seats will have to get their hands at the proceedings wherever they can scrounge in a look-see for themselves. The deadline for ticket applications was New Year's Eve, and the inaugural chairman, Robert B. Fleming, has cautioned that those who applied first "will get the best seats" on the route from the Capitol to the White House "and late comers will get what is left over, if anything."

Special seats are being reserved for hospitalized veterans in the area.

Parade planners are attempting to cut its length to two hours. In 1953 the procession meandered on for more than four hours and 30 minutes causing "confusion and technical difficulties and discomfort" according to officials.

Kitchen Tips

By Vivian Brown

The Associated Press
Add to the Order of Home-making another possible degree — Kitchen Mechanic. The average kitchen looks more like a control tower than a workshop these days, and the housewife who masters automatic gadgets certainly deserves a badge of merit.

In addition to keeping everything in tip-top running order, the modern housewife should keep her equipment as sparkling as the day it was installed.

A simple cleaning plan is necessary in the kitchen that must look like a model room every day. Here's one you may try:

1. Before you leave the kitchen after a meal, after dishes are washed and put away or stacked in the dishwasher, all surface counters, stove and oven tops should be washed and dried, chrome and other metals wiped clean, refrigerator door washed. If pots are displayed, bottoms should be polished after use.
2. Keep excess paraphernalia out of sight. Avoid exposed shelves that are likely to become cluttered with junk. These shelves usually start out with a planter and some canisters and wind up as the haven for all the junk in the house. Everything from the hammer to the baby's bottle may be found there.
3. Mop the floor every day. It'll only take a few minutes that way but if left until the dirty stage may be a real chore.
4. Take advantage of new cleaning materials to make work easier. . . . copper polishes that may be whisked over pot bottoms . . . special polishes for porcelain kitchen equipment, stainless steel . . . new pot cleaning gimmicks.

Spray Cleanser
A new spray oven cleanser is ideal for quick use. You spray it over an area that has been used, let it set for 10 minutes or more and then wipe it clean. The thin film of foam that sprays out of the can attaches to grease and dirt, dissolving it quickly. It also cleans stove burners.

5. If the wall behind your stove is always being splattered with grease, put up a backsplash that may be wiped clean easily. Some of the plastic coated wall papers are ideal for this purpose and lend a colorful note. If you do not want that addition in color you may find solid color papers to match your kitchen color scheme.
6. Peg board on one wall may solve a multitude of small kitchen problems. It may be the answer to where to hang the knife rack, cellophane tape dispenser, home stapling machine, pots, trays, aspic molds, and even the kitchen clock.
7. Avoid making cabinet cleaning a chore, by rotating the cleaning of them, straightening one out whenever it looks like it needs it. Ditto refrigerator shelves.

Neaten Drawers
8. You may keep cabinets and kitchen drawers neat by using them for categories of things. Stove and oven cabinets should hold only bake, roast and cooking equipment. One cabinet may be reserved for casserole dishes. Cabinets above the work center may house constantly used kitchen ware such as measuring cups, staples — flour, sugar, salt, vinegar. It's a good place for table ware also.

9. Two sets of kitchen curtains will keep you alternating them so there won't be a temptation to leave them up for just another day when they need washing. If you put your kitchen color into the curtains, try making two completely different color schemes for a new look every other day.
10. Keep brooms, carpet sweepers and mops in a special place out of sight, in their own closet if possible. These things can mar the appearance of the prettiest kitchen if left out.

30 Per Cent Of U.S. Copper Is Mined From Pit In Bingham

BINGHAM, Utah (AP)—"Man," said the tourist. "Dig that crazy golf divot."

And crazy it was, man, for the world's largest open pit copper mine, one and three-quarters miles across and 2,210 feet deep.

For the statistically minded: The mine produces more than 13 billion pounds of copper a year—30 per cent of the nation's yearly yield of newly mined copper and 10 per cent of the world's annual supply.

The mine has produced in 51 years, enough copper to encircle the earth at the equator with a solid band one inch thick and more than two feet wide, or about 13 billion pounds.

The pit is so big engineers keep track of its changing face with aerial photographs.

There are 175 miles of railroad track on the various bench levels in the mine. The pit, shaped like a bowl or cup, looks similar to a giant football stadium.

No Crowding
If the bench levels were covered with bleachers, all the people in Utah and Texas could be seated comfortably. It would take all the people in Nevada to sell the hot dogs, peanuts and popcorn. The spectators could watch as many as 10 separate football games going on at the bottom of the pit.

The pit is owned by the Kennecott Copper Corp. and is operated by the company's Utah Copper Division. Operations continue around the clock. About 3,200 men are employed at the mine.

Its development is a study in perseverance, chiefly by Daniel C. Jackling, who worked his way up from a dollar-a-day hard rock miner to a multimillionaire.

The average grade of ore now being mined is only 32 per cent copper. Ore containing as little as 4 per cent copper is processed, with material below that grade going to the dump heaps.

Sixty years ago such poor grade ore was considered useless. But Jackling developed a process for mining the low grade ore—a process which now accounts for more than 60 per cent of the world's copper production.

Noisy Work
The mining process begins by blasting. More than 6,000,000 pounds of dynamite are used in the pit each year.

Through a series of careful tests, engineers decide if the blasted material has enough copper to be worth processing.

Electric shovels load the material into side-dump railroad cars. The shovels, weighing from 200 to 250 tons, load a 100-ton ore car in about seven minutes with dippers taking 10 to 14 tons of material at a bite.

If the material contains enough copper, it goes to the mills. If it doesn't it is hauled to the various outlying waste dumps. The waste mined over 51 years—927,700,000 tons of it—has filled in branch canyons and gullies and it is necessary to haul the waste farther and farther to new dump sites.

The ore is hauled over the company-owned railroad to the Arthur and Magna mills near the shore of the Great Salt Lake. Here the ore is processed into a concentrate containing about 30 per cent copper.

Purity Increased
The copper concentrate goes from the mills to a nearby smelter where anode copper is produced. The anodes contain 99 per cent copper.

From the smelter the anodes go to a refinery at Garfield, where the copper reaches 99.96 purity and is cast into marketable shapes and is sold to a variety of customers.

For the entire mine-to-refinery operation, the Utah Copper Division employs 6,300 men. During 1956, the expenses for payroll, taxes, supplies, freight and other items totaled nearly 134 million dollars—a major factor in the economy of Utah.

How long before the mine peters out? Well, that's a tough question to answer. In any such mass production operation, the increase in cost of only a few cents a ton can shorten the life of the mine considerably.

Years ago the cutoff point for economically mining the rock was 16 pounds of copper per ton. Today ore containing only 8 pounds of copper a ton is shipped to the mills. Sometimes ore of only 4 pounds per ton is milled.

Kennecott is plowing millions of dollars back into research and new equipment in efforts to increase efficiency. The company says it has turned literally millions of tons of waste into ore, thus greatly lengthening the life of the mine.

NEW ENVOY—Ellsworth Bunker, a Democrat and retiring president of American Red Cross, has been named by President Eisenhower to be the U. S. Ambassador to India.

The Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey was the biggest—and the last—circus to travel by rail, but it wasn't the first. P. T. Barnum's early managing director, William C. Coup, is credited with originating circus flatcars and devices to facilitate transportation by rail. But the pioneer in the field was Dr. Gilbert A. Spaulding, a New Albany, Ind., druggist and pet owner of the Spaulding & Rogers show. In 1867 he made circus history when he rented rail-way cars to move the show. Ten years later another showman, L. B. Lentz, put his New York Circus on rails. His ads in 1877 proclaimed "the second triumphal tour by rail." Other shows followed the lead, with the Barnum circus hitting the tracks in 1872 and Ringling Brothers in 1890. Barnum was the first to buy his own rolling stock.

Persons witnessing a boxcar barreling along by itself might have thought the Canadian National Railway had developed some new means of motivation. Not so. Freight car No. 405576 was standing empty on a siding at Ormstown, south of Montreal, when winds of hurricane force struck it and set it rolling. The twenty-ton car moved through a switch and onto the main line under the lash of the wind the car sped through the station at Delson and on to Broseau, where alerted sectionmen switched it to a team track and halted its flight.

They aren't exactly like Chessie, but there are cats on the Swiss Federal Railway payroll. Their pay is free milk regularly and a more-than-occasional diet of mice. Their job is to rid the railroad's Simplon Tunnel of mice which, ironically, were put in the tunnel by the railroad. It happened this way: Shortly after opening the twelve-mile tunnel, believed to be the longest in the world, the railroad had a problem—how to keep the tunnel clean. Passengers continually were throwing food and other refuse out the windows as trains moved through the tunnel. So three pairs of mice were let loose to serve as scavengers in the tunnel. Everything worked fine until the mice began multiplying faster than the garbage. Before long nearby residents were complaining. The new solution: cats. Twelve of them were stationed, six at each end of the tunnel, to nab the foraging mice.

last year because the President was recovering from his heart attack and many thought they also would be bypassed this year with the inaugural functions demanding so much of his energy and time.

Shorter Season
But the season is "slightly curtailed." In former years traditional white-tie dinners and receptions numbered 11, and usually the season was leisurely paced, from early November until shortly before Lent. The 1954-55 official season started November 16 and wound up January 21.

The 1957 White House season includes the diplomatic reception held January 24, the dinner for the Chief Justice and Supreme Court January 29 and the February 4 dinner honoring the Vice President and Cabinet members. There's a reception February 7, a dinner honoring the Speaker of the House, February 28, and another reception set for March 5. (Ash Wednesday, first day of Lent, is March 6.) These affairs will keep the Chief Executive up well past his 9 o'clock bedtime. State dinners begin at 8 o'clock, receptions at 9 p.m.

Dinners, Receptions
Custom prescribes that each year the chief executive and his official hostess shall give a series of state dinners and receptions. The custom was broken in 1940, when President

Washington Whispers

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the busiest women in town is the peppy, blue-eyed wife of Rep. Lawrence Smith (R-Wis.)

Besides working nearly full-time in her husband's Capitol Hill office, Betty Smith gets around to most of the parties to which she and her husband are invited. She keeps a smoothly-running household. She's an excellent cook. But that is only part of the story of the Mrs. Smith who came to Washington.

Her interests extend beyond home and office, into politics and club work. She was president of the Congressional Club from 1953 to 1954 and supervised two of its nationwide cookbooks. She's a former national president of the American Legion Auxiliary and is now a member of its national finance committee.

Currently she's up to her ears arranging for the dinner which will highlight the Feb. 7 Woman's Forum on National Security. The meeting will bring to Washington some 700 delegates representing 15 patriotic organizations.

10 Years Work
The Smiths came to the capital 17 years ago, and Mrs. Smith has been working in her husband's office for the past 10 years. Mostly she handles her husband's personal matters and some veterans' cases. She says she enjoys the work, and constituents like to see a familiar face when they come to town.

Cooking is second nature to the congressman's wife. Dinner guests in Washington are treated to dishes made from recipes her own family used for more than a century. Guests back in Racine are treated to delicacies gleaned from all parts of the world. Because of her husband's membership on the House Foreign Affairs committee, the Smiths are invited to numerous diplomatic parties where the most exotic foods are served. Mrs. Smith has had the unusual opportunity to sample cooking at literally thousands of dinners, teas, and committee meetings.

Menu Planning
Not only does she whip up tempting meals in her own kitchen, she often is called on to plan menus for organizations to which she belongs. For her own guests, a favorite buffet menu is likely to begin with broiled grapefruit topped with brown sugar, a ham and veal loaf served with mustard sauce, and an almond and green bean casserole. There's usually jellied apricot salad and Jerusalem pudding made with chopped figs, dates, rice and whipped cream.

WASHINGTON (AP)—When President Eisenhower and his Republican administration took over from the Democrats in 1953, there were predictions of a return to the social formalities of past GOP regimes.

For the most part, those predictions have come true.

Those who knew the Republican social pattern were saying that evening white-tie invitations would mean white tie, not tuxedo, and that guests wouldn't be showing up at late-day receptions in business suits and street dresses either. They would go home and change into striped pants and party frocks as they did in the days before the Democrats introduced informality.

Except perhaps for the striped pants, this fashion forecast has come to pass.

Ball Gowns
Ladies attending evening functions at the White House are expected to wear floor-length ballgowns and long white gloves. Most of them do, though over the past four years a number chose to wear cocktail-length dresses.

These gowns will be seeing additional wear throughout the coming months. Some official wives have announced they purchased their one and only new evening gown of the season, for the inaugural and that's that. Since some of them have to attend all six of the season's late-announced White House functions, they expect to draw upon their wardrobes of past seasons for changes.

Long before the inauguration local merchants were sold out of white gloves. Protocol experts say white gloves are the most proper. Black gloves if they run to 22 buttons are acceptable. Colored gloves never!

Colored Gloves
This last the First Lady does not always adhere to. She is fond of gloves that match her shoes, evening bag or the trimming on her gown. Second Lady Pat Nixon is inclined the same way. At one white-tie shindig earlier this season she wore lime-colored gloves to match the trimming on her white lace gown, which incidentally was ballerina-length!

and Mrs. Roosevelt bypassed the annual diplomatic reception, chiefly because most diplomats were not speaking to each other. Other 1940 receptions were held as usual. Then came World War II, the post-war renovation of the White House, then the Korean War. The Trumans resumed the schedule in 1947-48, but the pickings were lean around the buffet table because of food conservation.

Wall Materials Important In Room Finishing

By Andrew C. Lang

The Associated Press

Few persons give enough attention to the proper selection of wall materials when it comes time to build a finished room in the attic or basement, add an extra room to the house or put up new walls in an old room.

Most of the time the choice of a particular material is made because it looked good in someone else's house . . . or in a showroom . . . or because a neighbor or a relative used it and recommended it.

These reasons are all right in their way — and should have some bearing on your decision — but the ultimate selection should be based on your own needs. The room you are finishing may be used for an entirely different purpose than the one you admired, which might make the wall material in the already-completed room highly impractical for you.

Many On Market
There are many dry wall materials readily available to the retail purchaser these days. Each has its own characteristics . . . and it's the wise buyer who knows why he is spending his money for a particular type of product.

Gypsum board, the least expensive of these materials, is a form of plaster covered on both sides with strong paper. It is sometimes erroneously referred to as plaster board, a term which accurately describes another kind of material used by professional plasterers. Besides being inexpensive, gypsum board has the greatly desirable feature of being fire resistant. Although durable under normal usage, it can be dented if a hard object is pushed against it. Most kinds of gypsum board must be painted or papered and the seams filled with tape and cement. Gypsum board costing a bit more can be obtained with special finished surfaces which require neither paper nor paint.

Asbestos cement board is a first cousin of gypsum board, but is priced about twice as high, which is still less than many other wall materials. This is made of asbestos fibers and portland cement pressed into rigid panels. It is fireproof and water resistant, making it excellent for laundry rooms, bathrooms and furnace enclosures.

Next we come to fiber or insulating board. It looks something like gypsum board, but has no plaster in it. Its base is composed of wood fiber, sugar cane residue or some other fibrous vegetable material. It is not fireproof, but it is more fire resistant than wood and it has good insulating qualities. Reasonable in cost, it once was made only in white, but now is available in many decorator colors and designs. Its disadvantages: It will not stand up for a long period of time where there is high humidity, such as in a damp basement — and it is susceptible to

Its base is composed of wood fiber, sugar cane residue or some other fibrous vegetable material. It is not fireproof, but it is more fire resistant than wood and it has good insulating qualities. Reasonable in cost, it once was made only in white, but now is available in many decorator colors and designs. Its disadvantages: It will not stand up for a long period of time where there is high humidity, such as in a damp basement — and it is susceptible to rooms, bathrooms and furnace enclosures.

PSALM 85:10 — "Steadfast love and faithfulness will meet; Righteousness and peace will kiss each other. (RSV)

Here is the irresistible and inevitable rendezvous: "steadfast love and faithfulness will meet." They belong together and their trust will be kept, come what or woe.

How profoundly true is the poetry of the psalmist as he next exclaims: "Righteousness and peace will kiss each other." No wonder; they are in love with each other. They will be together, they must be together. And what an attractive pair they make for mankind. Let's help them stay together.

It has been said: "In time of peace prepare for war and in times of war prepare for peace." Let us say: "In time of peace, prepare for more peace." War may be necessary again, but with the destructive potential available today let us pray: God forbid. "Peace and righteousness will kiss each other." These two lovers can't be separated. Call them together in your own heart. Righteousness is only what is right and that which is right is Peace. The Rev. Henry Edward Russell, Trinity Presbyterian Church, Montgomery, Alabama.

Asbestos cement board is a first cousin of gypsum board, but is priced about twice as high, which is still less than many other wall materials. This is made of asbestos fibers and portland cement pressed into rigid panels. It is fireproof and water resistant, making it excellent for laundry

PRESSURE FOR LABOR MERGERS BEING APPLIED

By NORMAN WALKER
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders Wednesday considered steps to force mergers of still-separate state organizations in a windup of their 10-day winter meetings.

Only 20 states have so far completed merging rival AFL and CIO state organizations.

The parent federation has set a deadline for next December for the remaining states — those most heavily industrialized — and encouraged voluntary amalgamations instead of forced mergers after the deadline.

Crackdown On 3

The powerful AFL-CIO Executive Council neared an end of a busy session which has been marked by an express determination to clean organized labor's ranks of corrupt influences.

Besides adopting strict new rules forbidding shady and dishonest union practices, the council yesterday cracked down on three unions—the Laundry, Distillery and Allied Industrial Workers.

It ordered suspension and eventual expulsion of the unions with in 90 days unless they toss out certain officers and adopt decency standards.

Charged With Scandals

The three unions contend the council acted without evidence to hold them guilty of being "dominated, controlled and substantially influenced by corrupt influences."

However, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the unions knew the nature of the charges they had to conduct to avoid AFL-CIO ousters. Meany pledged that unless they fully complied with cleanup requirements, the unions would be booted out of the federation.

All three unions had been charged in a 1955 Senate investigation with welfare funds scandals.

OK PLANS FOR CHURCH CENTER

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Council of Churches Tuesday night approved plans for a half million dollar church center at Harrisburg for Protestant churches in the council.

About 200 delegates to the council's 46th general assembly approved launching of a campaign fund sometime this year to raise $569,600 for the structure. Funds would be sought from churches,

ORDERS SPECIAL INSPECTION FOR SMALL CRAFT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration has ordered a special inspection procedure for certain small airplanes—including those of the type used by President Eisenhower—to guard against engine troubles.

Planes affected are those equipped with the Lycoming engines used in the twin engine Aero Commander which is the plane the President uses between Washington and Gettysburg, Pa., where he has a farm. The engines are also used in the Beech D50 and P50 airplanes.

The CAA said in mid-January foundations and individuals throughout the state.

Plans call for the center to be built on a bypass east of Harrisburg. It is designed to provide headquarters for the council acting as the state council of Christian education.

Delegates to the council session also adopted a resolution asking Christian churches to urge the commonwealth to provide better child care and welfare legislation and asking for more chaplains in state institutions.

it had received at least five reports of pistons in the engines burning out from undetermined causes.

Attempt Duplication

It said the Lycoming Division of Avco Manufacturing Corp. had tried to duplicate the trouble in an engine on a test stand, without success. Lycoming also had flown an airplane specially equipped with test instruments, almost continually for 300 hours in an unsuccessful attempt to induce piston burn-outs.

Accordingly the CAA last week issued an airworthiness directive. It ordered a special check before the next flight, to be repeated every 50 hours, to make sure that the link of the engine mixture control arm on the carburetor is in "full rich" position when the cockpit control is in full rich position.

STUDY YORK JUDGESHIP

HARRISBURG (AP)—Consideration by a Senate committee today was given a bill that would create a third judgeship in York County at an annual salary of $22,500. Sen. Harry E. Seyler (D-York) introduced the proposal yesterday.

PLAN BRIDGE REPAIR

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Highways Department on Tuesday awarded a contract to improve a bridge over Willis Run at York in West Manchester and Manchester Twp. to H. J. Williams Co., Inc., York, $66,219.

PRISONS PLAN TO USE DEPOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The General Services Administration said today the Federal Bureau of Prisons expects to take over a major portion of the former Susquehanna Ordnance Depot at Allenwood, Pa.

The bureau will use the property as a farm for the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa. It already has been making use of the facilities under special permit for four or five years.

If no other government agency is interested in the remainder of the property, consisting chiefly of agricultural and wooded land, this portion will be offered for sale to anyone interested under a bidding system. It totals about 3,000 acres.

Letter Of Intent

The GSA said the Bureau of Prisons had filed a letter of intent to take the rest of the 7,866 acres together with most of the 235 buildings and utilities for the prison farm.

A formal application is expected from the bureau as soon as it completes a survey of the property desired. If the application is approved, the property will be transferred to the bureau without fee.

NOTES IMMUNITY FROM AUTHORITY

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission said Tuesday the Red Hill Borough Water Commission in Montgomery County is not subject to state jurisdiction because it was not set up as a public utility.

The PUC dismissed a complaint by Pennsburg Water Co. contending Red Hill is furnishing service beyond its corporate limits and therefore requires a permit.

The company operates in Pennsburg, adjoining Red Hill.

The commission said it found no evidence that the borough provides service beyond its limits.

The PUC said it had no authority over the Red Hill operation because its jurisdiction covers only that section of a municipal water system outside official boundaries.

SCIENCE FINDS NEW WAY TO BRING WARM "HEALING BLOOD" TO STIFF ACHING JOINTS

Pain fades out as new MERICIN therapy helps healing blood flow into pain areas

A brilliant medical discovery now available at leading drug stores means dramatic reduction in the pain of arthritis and rheumatism for thousands.

Painful symptoms of arthritis, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago are now being effectively relieved by the remarkable action of a new combination of pain relieving medications.

This scientific compound works its relief by attacking what leading medical experts believe is the real cause of the baffling pain of arthritis and rheumatism... the "cut off" of free circulating healing blood from the areas of pain.

FIGHTS A BASIC CAUSE OF PAIN

When inflammation or spasm strikes your joints or muscles your nervous system warns the brain. The brain increases the flow of healing blood to the pain areas... but usually the spasm and swelling block its free flow. This blockage causes a vicious cycle of increased spasm and swelling, more severe pain... increased blockage of blood.

The new medication, called Mericin, "opens the door to healing blood" in the pain areas around your muscles and joints. As pain fades away, spasm and inflammation are reduced. Warm healing blood flows through the pain area more freely... soothes the pain.

MUSCLES LOOSEN—STIFF JOINTS SWING MORE FREELY!

Stiff joints swing more freely. Muscles loosen. In case after case in clinical tests when Mericin therapy was used, pain, swelling, redness and stiffness were reduced... and without any of the harmful effects so frequently noticed with the continuous use of cortisone, aspirin and other salicylates.

Mericin has now been made available to the public. It is offered with a remarkable unconditional guarantee of effectiveness. It must help increase the flow of healing blood through painful, stiff joints and muscles... must bring you relief you never had before, or the laboratories which compound this unusual pain reliever will refund your money in full.

Try Mericin today. Its relief is wonderful. It is available at all... drug stores.
